GENERAL REPORT

OF

THE COUNCIL.

AT the close of its sixth year of work it is evident that a great national task lies before the Workers' Educational Association. It is evident, moreover, that its constitution and experience justify it in entering upon that task full of hope. There is a great Hinterland of Labour waiting to be explored and redeemed in and through education if the national life is to attain a full and healthy development. To this great task the Association sets itself, inspired by the spirit of justice, and assured that a claim so broad and right as the claim it puts forward will unite men and women separated by birth, education, and occupation. True education knows neither sect nor party; it draws together in comradeship and friendship all who have the love of knowledge. As in previous years, the Association has found no difficulty in maintaining its unsectarian, non-party and democratic character. It is almost impossible in the brief report which will follow to give any full account of the multifarious activities of the Association. It is impossible to reproduce in the written page the spirit of comradeship which animates it throughout. But it is possible to give sufficient particulars to enable any reader who has seen the Association at work to form a not inadequate picture for himself. It is responsible for a network of classes and lectures, increased attendance at existing classes and lectures, the formation of habits of positive and well-directed reading, the vitalising of the influence of museums, libraries, and picture galleries, the drawing of the veil from the mysteries of the country side, an increased power and tenacity in the work of public administration, and the spread of a real belief in education revealing its beneficent influence all over the country. Such things must be taken into account, if one would form a picture of the Association on any day of its year.

The great feature of the year has undoubtedly been the work in connection with Universities. The outcome is that working men and women are able to realise each University and University College in England as a thing of meaning and importance. The Universities are now on the way to becoming the Universities of the whole people ; and it may be recorded that the Universities are as keen to co-operate with the people upon their own terms as the people are to co-operate with them. The work of the year leads one to prophesy that every real educational demand of the people will ultimately be met. It is, of course, sad that industrial conditions, involving far too short a period of attendance at school, child labour during that period, unemployment, overtime, and bad housing tend to make an articulate and insistent demand difficult ; but the co-operation of workpeople and University men in educational work will as certainly tend to dispel the difficulty. The blots in our national life will be revealed by the light which comes of their association, and men will go out with a larger social consciousness and a firmer determination so to arrange the conditions of employment that they no longer hamper and neutralise the demand for education.

In the paragraphs following we shall deal with specific activities. But though we shall not, as in past years, give separate chapters to the separate pieces of work, we shall place things in such a manner that no essential piece of information is omitted. In response to many requests, we have added a complete list of the organisations affiliated with the Association and a list of subscribers for the current year.

THE ADVANCE IN MEMBERSHIP.

As in previous years, we publish a table showing the advance in membership, which is of an extremely satisfactory nature. It must be remembered that the Association, owing to its limited strength at headquarters, has had for some years past to abstain from active propaganda for the promotion of branches. Directly the Association becomes sufficiently well supported by national Labour organisations, Universities, and public authorities, its development will go on by leaps and bounds. As it is, it is satisfactory to note the increase in the number of affiliated organisations. Such a unique list comprising all kinds of societies makes it possible for the Association to claim to be the most representative organisation of the kind in Great Britain, remembering always that such claim is valueless unless its work is worthy of it.

Branches .. ..	—	8	13	47	50	54
Affiliated Bodies ..	12	100*	283	622	925	1,124
Individual Members	135	1,000*	2,612	4,343	5,257	5,484

* Estimated.

The affiliated bodies make, in each instance, direct payment to a Branch or to the Central Authority.

The individual members are mainly working men and women, making direct payment upon their own account to a Branch or to the Central Authority.

The analysis of the 1,125 societies is as follows:—404 Trade Unions, Councils and Branches, 151 Co-operative Committees, 161 Adult Schools and Men's Classes, 11 University Bodies, 87 Working Men's Clubs and Settlements, 55 Teachers' Unions, 29 Educational Authorities and Institutions, 48 Literary and Scientific Societies and 179 other Societies, including Friendly Societies, Religious organisations of all leading sects, and all types of political bodies.

It must be remembered, however, that hopeful as these figures are, they represent but a very small proportion of the total number of similar societies.

A large number of classes and lectures have been held under the auspices of the Association, but it is not possible to estimate accurately the total number. It would be still more difficult to estimate the number of students. Suffice it to say that 240 students are studying and are pledged for a period of three years in Tutorial Classes. The Birmingham Branch of the Association estimates that it has brought 900 workpeople students into connection with the University. One of the most hopeful features of development in this direction is the work being done in several of our branches where systematised courses are offered to Adult Schools ready and eager to accept them both for Sundays and weekdays. In this way one branch is responsible for 200 classes in such subjects as Sweating, Unemployment, Industrial Progress of the 19th Century, Economic History, Local Government, British Constitution, Co-operation, Trade-unionism, City Government, Public Health and Housing, and Local History.

FINANCE.

The accounts which appear on page 19 reveal an increased income, but one still far short of what is needed to maintain the work of the Association at its present level, and manifestly inadequate to the enormous work which lies ahead. As will be seen by the list of subscribers the majority of subscriptions are very small. This in itself is a good feature. We are proud of the breadth of our appeal and the comprehensiveness of our membership. But we still need more money. We have been greatly helped during the year by the generosity of Mrs. Emma Winkworth, who died a few months ago. She gave us sums amounting to £200, and had provided for a further £100 before her death. This money was given out of her great love for the people without restriction or condition.

Another important feature is the fact that for the first time two City Companies have made donations—small, it is true, but, we hope, an earnest of further support. It is a source of satisfaction to record that no one has ever made a subscription, either small or large, or for specific work, conditional on anything. Those who have given money have been content with the knowledge that the Association is democratic, and designed to be governed by workpeople with the assistance of scholars for workpeople and scholars.

The financial needs for the next year are, roughly :—

Midland Office	..	..	..	300	0	0

Practically the whole of this money will have to be raised during the year. The Welsh District is autonomous, but is also in great need of financial assistance.

There are not wanting signs that Local Education Authorities will grant more financial aid to branches and that the Central Association will draw more money from educational and other endowments. We hope the time is not far distant when a grant in aid may be expected from the State. Mr. J. R. Clynes, M.P., spoke strongly upon this matter on June 26th, at Oldham. Meanwhile, we record with satisfaction the increased income from co-operative societies and trade unions, and increased support from branches. It is still necessary, however, that members of the Association should procure financial assistance for it from friends, and it may be said here definitely that no subscription is refused from anyone whatever his politics or creed, his station or class. The only essential is that all subscriptions must be given to the Association without condition, other, perhaps, than that applied by a desire to support one aspect of the Association's work in preference to another; for instance, some prefer that the whole of their money shall be spent upon the work for women.

We have been entrusted with a memorial gift, "In Memoriam—May Aitken." It will be our endeavour so to administer it as to produce in and through education happier conditions and happier lives.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The relations of the Association with the Board of Education have been in every way most gratifying. The North-Western Chairman and the General Secretary have sat throughout the year on the Consultative Committee of the Board, and they both feel that the position has offered them an excellent opportunity for good work. Two of their colleagues on the Consultative Committee are members of the Oxford Tutorial Classes Committee, Professor M. E. Sadler and Mr. A. L. Smith. This further opportunity of working with them has been helpful as well as pleasant.

The North-Western Chairman, Mr. D. J. Shackleton, and the General Secretary interviewed Mr. Runciman concerning the administration of Free Places in Secondary Schools, as the direct result of a communication from the Workers' Educational Association branch at Colne. The result of the interview is that the regulations of the Board are altered this year in such a manner as to define more clearly the meaning of the term "Free Places," and to prevent Education Authorities from counting as Free Places scholarships provided by other bodies, such as co-operative societies. This is a significant instance of the way in which the Association can work and help to work towards that ideal system of Secondary Schools which was enunciated by Mr. McKenna in the House of Commons, the system, namely, in which all are free. An important reform in the regulations as to the staffing of schools which will tend to reduce the size of classes has been initiated by Mr. Runciman. Many Workers' Educational Association branches have passed resolutions supporting the circular containing it, and transmitted them to the Minister of Education. The Association has been in communication with various local bodies, and it is always glad to procure information which may throw light upon local educational problems. It will issue circulars from time to time to its branches suggesting improvements—such as the adoption of the Children's Employment Act which will tend to bring all localities up to the level of the highest.

It is an important part of the work of the Association constantly to bear in mind the demands of Labour, especially those contained in the Resolution of the Trades Union Congress; and in this respect to scrutinise present administration of schools and discover reforms immediately possible in order to represent them to the authorities concerned. The amount of work that may be done in this direction by the Association is alone sufficient to justify its existence. It is the better able to do it because it has no power under the terms of its constitution to deal with alterations of the law in Parliament, leaving that to the various bodies specially constructed for the purpose.

LOCAL EDUCATION AUTHORITIES.

The hearty co-operation of Local Education Authorities is one of the chief features of the work of the year. Branches of the Association have always been welcomed by them. They saw at once that the Association would tend to increase the demand for education in their district, and would moreover be a means of communication by which the real ideas of workpeople could be presented to the Education Committee from a purely non-party and unsectarian standpoint. Our investigations abroad have revealed to us clearly that where similar organisations exist they are largely helped out of the public purse. The municipality of Frankfort contributes the equivalent of £690 per annum in this way. It is therefore a matter of great satisfaction to us to be able to record that our pioneer branch at Reading received last year a grant of £10 from the Reading Education Committee, and has this year received £20. There is also much greater willingness on the part of Education Authorities to subscribe one or two guineas in the first instance to the branches. In the past there was always a fear of the auditor ; but it is now clearly demonstrated by practice that such financial aid is administratively sound and in harmony with the powers of Local Education Authorities ; especially in consideration of the fact that Local Education Authorities have representation on the governing body of the local branches. It is in this connection with the Local Education Authorities that a great deal of the practical power of the Association lies. The Association is essentially a co-operating body. As a co-operating body it can press forward the reforms it desires effectively. It is always ready to recognise that its opportunity comes precisely when the Local Education Authority is unable to do anything for adults. The time will come, it is hoped, when the belief in education will be so strong as to make it possible for Local Education Authorities to take over a great part of the teaching work of the Association. Further steps will be taken during the coming year to encourage this tendency, and it is hoped that the central meetings of Education Authorities will receive representations from the Association.

UNIVERSITIES.

The growth of our work in connection with Universities has been more rapid than we anticipated. It is a uniform growth, although the work in connection with Oxford has received special prominence owing to the report of the Joint Committee. We are glad to say that there is no University or University College in England which is not now in some sort of connection with us ; and the steady persistent work done with us by every University and University College is of such a nature as to demand in each case long reports. Such reports will be given from time to time in the Highway. Here we will examine our connection with Universities under three headings, i.e., Tutorial Classes, Lectures, and Government.

TUTORIAL CLASSES.—Prior to the Oxford Report, tutorial classes were held in connection with the Universities of London, Birmingham, Sheffield, and Oxford. A thorough examination of the principles of Tutorial Classes is to be found in the Report of the Oxford Joint Committee (Clarendon Press, 1s. net). Roughly speaking, they run for three years, comprise 72 two-hour lessons, and are each made up of 30 students pledged to make every attendance and to write each of the thirty-six essays required. They are under local management because it is felt that workpeople themselves are best able to determine the conditions of their study. A special report is appended concerning the Oxford classes which were instituted last winter.

The University of Cambridge will have classes at Portsmouth, Wellingborough, and, it is hoped, at Leicester during the ensuing winter. At Portsmouth 70 applicants representing 30 different societies applied for admission to the class. At Leicester 56 students petitioned for the establishment of a Tutorial Class.

Definite provision is being made in connection with the Universities of London, Manchester and Leeds. Work at the University of Birmingham has been, and will be, carried on at the Working Men's College there, and at least five courses of study will be undertaken. Promises of support have been received from working-class organisations at Liverpool for classes in connection with the University of Liverpool. The two classes in connection with the University of Sheffield will, it is expected, be continued, as will also those in connection with the University of Bristol. The University Colleges of Southampton and Reading also expect to have classes.

This development of classes is a happy one. They are rightly regarded by Universities and workpeople alike as real outposts of the Universities, and they bring to workpeople who are engaged in industrial occupations the highest opportunity of their kind which our time has yet afforded. The idea of comradeship in the pursuit of study animates all the classes, and the teachers rejoice in their students as much as the students rejoice in their teachers.

Further, it has from the outset been evident to us that no real forward movement can be made in connection with this work until representatives of every University and University College in England and Wales have met to discuss the whole question, to deal with overlapping and to unify procedure. The establishment of Tutorial Classes has afforded the desired opportunity, and we are happy to say that the General Secretary, acting under the authority of the Oxford Tutorial Classes Committee, as well as the Workers' Educational Association, has been able to visit many Universities, and to bring the matter within the range of practical procedure. A meeting will take place early in October; two representatives of the Workers' Educational Association will attend, and will thus have the opportunity of expressing some of the needs and desires of workpeople.

LECTURES.—A great deal of lecturing work has been accomplished and many of the branches either work in connection with the local University Extension centre or have organised lectures. The organisation of a course of University Extension lectures without substantial local assistance, especially from the Education Authorities, is beyond the financial powers of most of the branches and results in deficits. A very strong branch with a large membership roll can face the deficit; but a deficit is inevitable when the low price of the tickets chargeable to working people is considered.

Among the most notable lectures of the year may be instanced the lectures on "Nine Famous Birmingham Men," given at Birmingham University, and published by Cornish Bros., of that city, at 2s. 6d. net, and the remarkable course arranged in connection with the University Extension Board and delivered in the Royal Gallery of the House of Lords by Professor Masterman on "Parliament and People." This third course has demonstrated the keenness of London workpeople to hear good lectures. On the occasion of the fourth lecture the entire audience was outside waiting at least half an hour before the doors were opened; and the spectacle of waiting people was commented upon by the London newspapers. The Universities of Liverpool, Leeds, Manchester, and Bristol, together with the University Colleges of Reading and Southampton, have also provided lectures.

GOVERNMENT.—The most notable achievement of the year has been the establishment of the Joint Committee at Oxford, responsible for the administration of Tutorial Classes. This Committee is the first instance in which workpeople as such have taken part in the administrative work of a University. This Joint Committee was quickly followed by the establishment of Joint Committees at Manchester and Leeds, and a provisional Joint Committee at Cambridge; a Joint Committee is being formed at London. The names of the various members of these Committees are to be found on page 4.

Representations were made in connection with the formation of the new University of Bristol concerning the appointment of representatives upon the Court of Governors. As a result, eight representatives of Labour have been appointed Governors under the Charter. This is a satisfactory achievement seeing that Labour Governors of other Universities are very few. We congratulate our branch at Bristol on its success in this work, and we desire to express our appreciation and good will to those drafting the Charter for their support of the claim made by workpeople.

A special committee has been formed, of which Mr. J. S. Nicholson is hon. secretary, to prepare evidence from the Labour point of view to present to the Royal Commission on University Education in London. A Report of its work will be submitted in the next Annual Report.

The connection of Universities with Labour will continue and increase. We should be glad at the present stage to see experiments conducted on diversified methods, and we welcome varieties of experiments, provided always that Labour will support such experiments with all its strength. It would be unfortunate if in co-operation with Universities or in the construction of distinct working-class Colleges, the representatives of Labour were not well supported by true students. We want each experiment to help to convince the world that the working man scholar is in no way inferior to scholars of any other sort whatever, and we want also to produce the highest type of scholar the world has yet seen. We do not forget that working people and the children of workpeople have been among the finest scholars and teachers of all time. Our co-operation with Universities is based upon the principle that Universities are in process of development; they are not fixed quantities; they respond to the motions of the national mind. Labour co-operates with them not because they are perfect, but because such co-operation will increase their rate of progress towards the desired perfection. The mental and spiritual influence which comes from Labour must be absorbed by all educational institutions if they are to do the work which their existence in the community demands.

THE EDUCATION OF WORKING WOMEN.

Throughout the report it will be clearly seen that women are participating in every activity of the Association.

The Women's Advisory Committee has met several times, and we are glad that there are now three women upon the Executive of the Association. The Association recognises no sex distinctions whatsoever, but it is necessary to take special steps in regard to working women at this stage of educational development. Several branches have constructed Women's Committees. In one notable instance, at Littleborough, an afternoon class with an average attendance of 200 was held to study the laws of health, and it is gratifying to hear that there has been a decrease in the infantile death rate in that locality.

It is recorded elsewhere that five working women held scholarships for the Cambridge Summer Meeting. We are glad to say that several will attend the Oxford Summer Meeting this year by the help, amongst others, of women students of the University Colleges. We appreciate very much the help which members of the Association of Women Teachers is giving by raising funds to assist the women in Tutorial Classes.

We have to record our deep regret at the death of Miss Overbury, who represented the Girls' Clubs Association on the Women's Advisory Committee. At the last meeting of the Committee the following resolution was passed :—

That the Women's Advisory Committee of the Workers' Educational Association expresses its deep sympathy with the relatives of Miss Overbury, who was ever a keen and enthusiastic worker for the education of the working women in England, and has been a member of this committee since the commencement of its work ; and further that the kind thought of Miss Overbury, as expressed by her gift to the Association, be perpetuated by means of a Scholarship Fund, which shall help towards the provision of an annual scholarship for a working woman at one of the University Summer Meetings year by year.

We believe that the education of working women is one of the root problems of popular education. For that reason the Association will, for some time to come, devote to it special and active attention.

LECTURES AT HOLLESLEY BAY LABOUR COLONY.

Lectures have been continued week by week throughout the winter at Hollesley Bay, the Labour Colony in connection with the Central Unemployed Body for London. Amongst those who have lectured to the men is Dr. H. H. Turner, F.R.S., Savilian Professor of Astronomy at Oxford.

Week-end visits are being arranged during the present summer, and Lectures have already been arranged for next winter. Additions have been made to the Library.

An attempt was made to organise a systematic course of Lectures in Astronomy, which, strange as it may seem, appears to be a favourite subject with the men, but it has not been possible to complete the arrangements so far.

The Association values this piece of work, because it aims at helping all sections of the community and it is moreover glad that in many of its classes, men who are unemployed do not cease their studies.

CAMBRIDGE SUMMER MEETING.

The W.E.A. party at Cambridge numbered about 80. The authorities of Trinity College kindly lent and furnished a large lecture-room, which served for writing, reading, teas, and discussions. Of the last item there were plenty. Night after night matters of more or less importance were discussed with enthusiasm. On one occasion "The Relationship between Workpeople and Universities" was discussed for nearly four hours, and was participated in, besides others, by several Professors at Cambridge, in addition to Professor Masterman, of Birmingham, and Professor Chapman of Manchester. The discussion was made very practical by the attitude of the Secretary to the Cambridge University Syndicate, the Rev. D. H. S. Cranage, to whom the whole party is under a great obligation for the kind way in which he considered the requirements of the workpeople.

The local President of the W.E.A. for the fortnight was Mr. F. M. Cornford, Fellow of Trinity, who was assisted by a number of other Fellows and Graduates of his own and other Colleges. The comradeship which prevailed was of great value to the development of education. Men went back to the potteries, to the mines, and to the looms feeling that their aim and the aim of the scholar were one, and many friendships were cemented between dwellers in college quadrangles and workers in industrial centres.

The W.E.A. was enabled to award a number of scholarships, the most important being to working women, who made many contributions to the success of the meeting, and were inspired to work even harder than before for the cause of the education of the people. Mrs. Sidgwick, of Newnham College, visited them at Trinity, and entertained them at Newnham. It was a strange thing to see working men and women at dinner in the rooms of Professors, but it happened over and over again, and at least one working man dined at the high table at Trinity, and found there friendship which had previously only been his lot in trade union or adult school meetings.

A large party is hoping to visit Oxford this year, where rooms are being provided at Balliol College for tea, writing, and discussion, and we are glad that it will be possible for our President, Mr. A. E. Zimmern, of New College, and several other Oxford men, to attend, in addition to Cambridge tutors who want to spend another fortnight with workpeople.

"THE HIGHWAY."

In October 1908, the Association began the issue of a monthly paper, "The Highway." Its publication has been of great use to the Association. Its monthly circulation has always been over 3,000, and the loss sustained is not a great one. The first year's work has revealed to us more clearly what is needed and the second volume which commences on October 1st., will embody the teaching of this experience. We are ordering 5,000 copies per month in future, every one of which must be sold, if we are to get through without loss. We therefore appeal to members to subscribe themselves, and to induce others to subscribe. It is our hope that we shall be successful in producing the sort of educational paper that the workpeople of England need, and shall be able at the end of the year, to place it upon the open market, and publish it as ordinary papers are published. The Executive gives thanks to Mr. Kolthammer, the Editor, who, in view of the pressure of Oxford Tutorial Class work, is unable to act during the second year, and the various able contributors who have given freely of their best out of enthusiasm for the cause.

FOREIGN VISITS.

A new feature in the work of the year has been the development of foreign visits. The group of Rochdale workmen who visited Germany for a fortnight will publish a special report contributed to by each of the members of the deputation. The South London group visited Belgium for a few days and regard their visit as the forerunner of others.

OTHER MOVEMENTS.

We derive great encouragement and satisfaction from the rapid and sound growth of Adult Schools in England. Upon them lies much of the responsibility for educational advance among workpeople in the future. They are facing such responsibility with all the power which comes from their splendid organisation ideals and comradeship.

In connection with the Adult School movement a residential College has been established at Fircroft, under the wardenship of Tom Bryan, a workman graduate of Glasgow University, and a former Mayor of Southwark. The College is unsectarian and non-political. We have been glad to approve the action of the General Secretary and of the Midland Secretary in assisting in the formation of the College which was a necessary adjunct to the multifarious educational activities of Adult Schools.

In connection with the Tutorial Class movement it is hoped that the ideals of the National Home Reading Union may be yet further realised. Its Reading Circles form a useful preliminary to the formation of Tutorial Classes, and also a useful adjunct when Tutorial Classes are formed.

The educational work of the Co-operative Movement grows steadily. Special attention is being given to the education of adolescent employées, and the ideal of a Co-operative College may be realised in the near future by the completion of the Holyoake Memorial.

Definite steps have been taken by Working Men's Clubs and among other work the Club and Institute Union have during the year established a scholarship at Ruskin College, and two Scholarships at University Summer Meetings.

Three members of the Association were nominated to Scholarships at Ruskin College—Mr. Kershaw of Rochdale, Mr. Scantlebury of Southampton and Mr. Pendry of Rushden.

SPECIAL DIFFICULTIES.

The special difficulties usually mentioned in branch reports are apathy about education and want of money. We do not regard the apathy of workpeople as a difficulty at all ; that is a state of mind which the Association was constructed to combat. The financial difficulty is referred to elsewhere, and does not come under consideration now. The real difficulties are insufficient and incomplete education during the years of childhood and adolescence, the neglect of educational considerations in cases where industry and commerce lead to overtime, unemployment, and irregular working hours. We cannot expect the Association to do its work properly until it has examined such tendencies from the educational point of view, and made representations concerning them to other bodies. A record of the hours of labour worked by all students in the Tutorial Classes is being very carefully kept, and at the close of next winter it is intended that a detailed and definite statement shall be made. We ought also to record as an opposing force of far-reaching and malignant influence the development of an irresponsible and careless Press, surrounded by papers and books, designed for adolescents, which are mind-destroying. Acting upon the impulse of Dr. Paton, whose great work for the education of the people has led the way in so many directions of reform, we are arranging in connection with the National Home Reading Union, a small conference of Labour and other representatives. It is comparatively easy to stimulate a man's power of thought when he has not been subject to the deteriorating influence now under consideration.

It will be observed by those who carefully examine the branches that the work done in them varies very much. We feel that even more than in past years it will be necessary to help all the branches to rise to the high level attained by many of them, rather than to assist in the creation of more branches.

THANKS.

The thanks of the whole movement are due to so many individuals and institutions as to make it quite impossible to give even passing reference to them. The splendid energies of the district and local secretaries are shown in the reports they submit, as is the considerable assistance rendered by the Board of Education, local Education Authorities, Co-operative Societies, and Trade Councils. It is a matter of great importance in these days that workpeople are willing to spend every moment of their leisure that is not absorbed by their specific organisations not only upon education, but in organising the facilities for it without any other reward than the joy of service.

FINALLY.

Notwithstanding a record of success so gratifying, we would call the attention of all our members to the fact that the Association is hardly upon the threshold of its work. The opportunities before it are great and the need is vast beyond the apprehension of any single body of people.

The Association is sure that there are great numbers of working people who are capable of throwing light upon the whole field of industrial problems and raising the general level of English life. At the same time it realises more and more plainly that there is much to be done before education has a reasonable scope for its operations. At present the adult is hampered by overtime, unemployment, shift systems of work and long and fatiguing daily toil. The adolescent is exploited by being set to uneducative and unfruitful work ; and lacks that educational care which would restrict the unreasonable demands of employment and tempt him into schools suitable to his outlook. Hope perhaps is to be found in the reform of primary schools ; and we join hands with that large body of reformers who declare that the time spent at school is too short and that the school age should be raised. Moreover, we agree with those who maintain that child labour during the years of attendance at school retards educational advance. We recognise that the raising of the school age will necessitate the unification of primary and secondary education, but we are sure there are no children—other than those mentally or physically deficient—who are unable to profit by education suitable to their individualities, throughout childhood and youth, and especially during the years from 13 to 17. Even the mentally and physically deficient will rapidly decrease in number if Education Authorities are placed in a position to secure for the people's schools the most expert care that medical science can give.

With this confession of faith, we look forward to the future full of hope, knowing that we are helping to consolidate the educational opinion of labour, and inspire that belief in education which we believe to be essential to the true development of our people.

DISTRICT REPORTS.

(a) MIDLAND.

The policy of the Midland Council during the past year has been to strengthen existing Branches rather than to form new ones. Nevertheless two new Branches, Worcester and Dudley have been successfully started. In Dudley a Summer Class has been commenced in preparation for a Tutorial Class next Winter.

Two Branches, Coventry and Walsall, opened the season rather unfortunately, but have recovered, and are now vigorously preparing for next season's work. All the other Midland Branches have to record a successful year, full of usefulness and good service.

The authorities of the Birmingham University, have generously placed at the disposal of the local W. E. A., a lecture theatre, a reading room, and a library, thus enabling the Birmingham Branch to commence on the premises of the University itself, the nucleus of a Workers' College. 167 students (a considerable minority of whom were ladies) have attended the various courses of lectures, and debates, sing-songs, musical evenings, etc., have been held in the true Collegiate fashion. There is no intention of creating a Workers' College as a separate institution, the idea is rather to develop it as a special department of the work of the University.

The active sympathy and steady support of the University is a great asset, not only of the Birmingham Branch, but of the Midland District in general. In his Report to the Council of Governors, the Principal, Sir Oliver Lodge, commented upon the work of the W. E. A., which was, he said, "important to us from more than one point of view."

A great feature during the past year has been the progress made by the Association in and among the Adult Schools. The Dudley Branch in particular is being strongly supported by the Local Schools. The Birmingham and Walsall Branches have been able to render valuable service to the Schools in the Midland Union during the last few months, by organising for their "Educational Half" courses of lectures on various aspects of Social Study. Nearly two hundred lectures have been arranged since Christmas in Birmingham alone.

Large cities always present problems to W. E. A. organisation, and in Birmingham it is felt that in spite of the large number of students (nearly 1,000 in all) the W. E. A., has got together during the winter, only a fraction of the working-class population has been touched, owing to the distance that many of them live from the centre of the city. Steps are being taken therefore to decentralise the work, by organising Branches in the outlying districts.

Interest and enthusiasm in educational matters, of which the almost spontaneous birth of the Dudley Branch is a sign, is rapidly spreading in the Black Country, and a whole network of vigorous Branches could easily be organised in the district. Inadequate financial resources however forbid such a forward movement at present. The harvest is waiting but more money is needed if it is to be successfully garnered. Everywhere indeed throughout the Midlands there are unmistakable signs of a great educational revival; everywhere there is being formed among all grades of workmen and workwomen a new attitude and mind towards adult education, and it would be indeed regrettable if through lack of funds the opportunity were allowed to pass.

C. BIRMINGHAM, Chairman.

T. W. PRICE, Secretary.

(b) NORTH WESTERN.

The past year has been a period of satisfactory development and progress. As a matter of deliberate policy no special effort has been made to form new Branches, but the claims of three towns could not be refused and Branches have been established with every prospect of success at Huddersfield, Blackburn and Chorley, making a total of 19 in the North-Western area. There are other places where action is being taken, and many others where Branches are desired.

The existing Branches are all actively at work, though some are beset with special difficulties which hinder their progress. It is a matter for regret that Preston and Darwen have not yet been placed on a satisfactory footing.

The active support and sympathy of several important bodies have been gained during the year. The Working Men's Clubs' Association (Manchester and District) has affiliated and recommended its individual Clubs to join. The Lancashire and Cheshire Federation of Trades and Labour Councils has also affiliated. Through it we are in touch with a very large number of Trade Unions. The P.S.A. Federations have also shown interest in our work.

The most important feature of the year's work has been the great development of Tutorial Classes. The experimental classes at Rochdale and Longton have successfully completed their second session. Classes at Oldham, Glossop, Littleborough and Chesterfield, and a preparatory class at Nelson (all in the North-Western area) have been formed under the Oxford Tutorial Classes Committee. In connection with Leeds and Manchester, Universities, Joint Committees, on which the Association is represented, have been formed and classes will, it is fully expected, be at work next winter. Largely as a result of an address by the Rev. W. Hudson Shaw, at a Co-operative Conference at Beswick, many Co-operative Educational Committees have been considering the question of forming or supporting Tutorial Classes.

One interesting feature is the growing tendency of neighbouring Branches to fraternise in Rambles, Socials, and other fixtures. This is all to the good. Branches can do much to help and encourage each other. For the same reason the increased interest shown in the Council Meetings is to be welcomed, though it is regrettable that financial considerations prevent some Branches from being regularly represented. It may be necessary to consider the advisability of dividing the area to obviate this difficulty.

The same financial difficulty still prevents that development and extension of the Association's activity in the North-West which could otherwise so easily be achieved. It is a great advantage, however, that it has been made possible for the Secretary to give all his time to the work.

The Council regret that, owing to his removal from the district, Mr. H. O. Meredith had to resign his office as honorary secretary, and they desire to record their appreciation of his valuable services. Professor Macgregor, of Leeds University, was elected in his place.

(c) SOUTH WALES.

This district which is an autonomous area of the Association moves slowly. Many difficulties have to be met, and the task of explaining the objects of the Association is immense. Three new branches have been opened in South Wales, and they have drawn to them representatives of the following trades:—Railway men, Gasworkers, Postmen, Printers, Miners, Enginemen, Stokers, Bricklayers, Waggon-builders, Coaltrimmers, Tramwaymen and Tinsplate workers. The Education Authorities of South Wales, convinced that the Association may be a means of stimulating the demand for education amongst the people, are coming forward strongly to its support. The County Educational Authorities of Monmouthshire and Glamorganshire, and the Local Education Authorities of Swansea, Abertillery, Pontypridd, Mountain Ash, Neath, Ebbw Vale, etc., are lending their aid.

The Branch at Barry has suffered great loss by the death of its devoted Secretary, Mr. J. Pemberton.

The Cardiff Branch has not had so good a year, but it hopes for more support from the Education Committee in the future.

Abertillery is looking forward to much progress during the coming year.

Pontypridd has had a busy year, lectures being arranged by the General Committee as well as by one of the Ward Committees. The help of the Cardiff University College and the Local Education Authority has been of great service, and next year the Branch hopes to have a successful course of University Lectures as a preliminary to a full Tutorial Class.

The new Branches have started satisfactorily. Merthyr has received at once the assistance of the Education Committee. A strong programme is under consideration for next winter, and there are signs of the work being taken up strongly. Tredegar has found many difficulties at the outset of its work, but they are being surmounted. The Tredegar Literary Society rendered splendid assistance in the formation of the Branch. Porth is looking to its work.

The old Branch at Cwmavon, handicapped as it is by the nature of the industry of the district, is keeping its work going and looking forward to extension.

In conclusion, we once again refer to the splendid help given by Education Committees. We think that in their hands lies a good deal of the future development in South Wales. Their encouragement to our members who volunteer to serve the community by attempting to combat the apathy that exists towards education, is of considerable importance. It is quite clear that the movement is gaining ground in South Wales. Indifference is our great enemy, as it is in all parts. If, however, we succeed in getting those people who complain of indifference to do something towards removing it, then the success of the movement is assured, and life in South Wales will be for its teeming industrial masses, more full of joy and instinct with hope.

(d) SOUTH-WESTERN AND OTHER DISTRICTS.

Owing to the death of the Secretary of the South Western Districts, and its great distance from London, matters have been in abeyance there for some time, but we are glad to say that Mr. W. H. Watkins, of 7, Connaught Avenue, Plymouth, who has done great service in connection with Co-operative Education, has consented to act as Secretary for the time being. He will call the South-Western Committee together and continue the steps that have been taken at Torquay and Newton Abbot.

In regard to the NORTH-EASTERN DISTRICT, it is our intention to convene a large Conference at Newcastle at the earliest opportunity. The re-construction of the University of Durham, which will become the University of Newcastle and Durham, will increase the facilities open to workpeople in those parts. We shall have a hearty welcome from the University and the movements of workpeople.

It is hoped to take steps during the coming Winter for the formation of a SOUTH-EASTERN District of which Mr. H. E. Curtis of 31, North End Avenue, Portsmouth, will act as Secretary provisionally, but the Branches which would compose that district are working well and with increased success.

Representations have been made from NORTH WALES, in regard to the great desire for education which exists among the quarrymen of that district. Forward steps will be taken at the earliest opportunity with the assistance of well known men of North Wales. There is, of course, a Tutorial Class existing at Wrexham.

(b) A Brief Summary of the Work Accomplished in the Branches.

It might appear to the casual observer that the Local Associations are in danger of duplicating existing facilities ; but it must be remembered that the Branches are Federations of the Educational and Working-class Bodies of the district. Accordingly by their very nature they tend to minimise the overlapping which might otherwise exist, and they certainly reduce the educational wastage. It may, therefore, be taken that all the work accomplished directly fills up gaps which have hitherto existed in their respective towns.

1—Practically all the Branches work in CO-OPERATION WITH THE LOCAL EDUCATION AUTHORITIES which are represented upon the Council and are making grants in increasing number, and generally provide rooms free of charge, unless more suitable rooms are provided by the local Co-operative Society or Trades Council.

SHAKESPEARE TUTORIAL CLASS FOR WOMEN, OLDHAM.

Miss A. MAUDE ROYDEN (Somerville), Tutor.

2—UNIVERSITY TUTORIAL CLASSES. Each Course runs for 3 years, consists of 72 lessons, and each student writes 36 essays. These classes are established at Longton (not a Branch), Wrexham, Chesterfield, Rochdale, Oldham, Glossop, Swindon, and Littleborough. Preparation is being made for classes at Huddersfield, Liverpool, Dewsbury, Wellingboro', York, Southampton, Bournemouth, Pontypridd, Rushden, Portsmouth, Dudley, Worcester, Wolverhampton, and Leicester.

3—UNIVERSITY TUTORIAL CLASSES for shorter periods are held at Rushden, Sheffield, Liverpool, Birkenhead, Bristol, Darlington, Glossop, Handsworth, Birmingham, Derby, Leicester, Nelson, and South London.

4—TUTORIAL CLASSES for short periods, not under the direct auspices of Universities, but taught by University Teachers, are held at 8 Branches.

5—A TUTORIAL CLASS for WORKING WOMEN is held at Oldham.

6—CLASSES for WORKING WOMEN are held at South London, Littleborough, Todmorden, Rochdale, Oldham, and Glossop.

7—SUMMER CLASSES are running at Rochdale, Oldham, Swindon, Wrexham, Cwmavon, Birmingham, and Dudley.

8—WOMEN'S COMMITTEES have been established in connection with the branches at Littleborough, Rochdale, and South London.

9—UNIVERSITY LECTURES have been given in connection with all Branches which exist in University towns, and in towns which have a University College.

10—UNIVERSITY LECTURES have been organised by Leeds, Liverpool, London, Sheffield, Manchester, Bristol, Southampton, Cardiff, and Birmingham.

11—UNIVERSITY EXTENSION LECTURES have been ORGANISED by Kettering, Glossop, Grays, Bury, Rochdale, Oldham, High Wycombe, York, Wakefield, and Birkenhead.

12—DEFINITE ASSISTANCE has been given to UNIVERSITY EXTENSION LECTURES by all Branches existing in towns where such Lectures are organised.

13—LECTURES IN MUSEUMS, ART GALLERIES, and FREE LIBRARIES have been given in a number of towns, and are indeed a normal feature in the work of the Branches.

14—EDUCATIONAL RAMBLES are organised by almost every Branch, with the exception of one or two instances, where other Societies are successfully arranging them.

15—EVENING SCHOOL WORK. Practically all the Branches assist this in one way or another; in some Branches very definite schemes are in existence.

16—LOCAL CALENDARS of educational facilities and fixtures are published by Sheffield, Rochdale, Leeds and Bristol. Many Branches publish leaflets.

17—LECTURE SUPPLY AGENCIES. Practically all the Branches supply lecturers to their affiliated Societies.

18—EDUCATIONAL CLUBS have been organised at Rochdale, Oldham, High Wycombe, and Birmingham.

19—CHORAL SOCIETIES have been organised at South London and Glossop.

20—An ART GALLERY has been constructed at Northampton.

(c) News from the Branches.

No attempt has been made to detail all the work of the Branches, but a few salient features have been extracted. It will be seen that class work is the dominant type, but if the work of the Branches would be properly understood, Deputations, Trade Unions, General Discussions, largely attended Educational Excursions, including visits to Art Galleries and Museums, must be taken into consideration. Those Branches which have University Tutorial Classes find them to be a strong support and inspiration.

University Extension Lectures are generally subsidised by educational or other bodies. The amount of suggestion made by the Branches in the course of their work is very great, and in some districts great educational revival is the result.

(These extracts in no way cover the work of Branches. Members requiring full information should write to the Branch Secretary in question.)

Thirteen men and women members of the Branch visited Germany for two weeks at Whitsuntide. They are preparing jointly a special report which will be published. Premises were taken for a Club with three rooms, which with the rapidly growing library affords a centre for the Branch's work, for reading, study, and intellectual intercourse.—Rochdale Branch.

The Branch secured information from Leeds, Bradford, Halifax, and Nelson as to methods adopted in those towns for increasing the attendance at Evening Schools. A systematic visitation of the town was undertaken in the interests of the Evening Schools. A calendar of educational events was prepared and exhibited in public places.—Colne Branch.

Constitution of the Association.

I.—NAME.

The Association shall be known as THE WORKERS' EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION. It shall be definitely unsectarian and non-political.

II.—OBJECT.

Its object shall be to promote the Higher Education of Working Men and Women.

III.—METHODS.

It shall, in its capacity as a co-ordinating Federation of Working-class and Educational interests, endeavour to fulfil its object in the following principal ways :

- (a) By arousing the interest of the Workers in Higher Education, and by directing their attention to the facilities already existing.
- (b) By enquiring into the needs and feelings of the Workers in regard to Education, and by representing them to the Board of Education, Universities, Local Education Authorities, and Educational Institutions.
- (c) By providing, either in conjunction with the aforementioned bodies or otherwise, facilities for studies of interest to the Workers which may have been hitherto overlooked.
- (d) By Publishing, or arranging for the publication of such reports, pamphlets, books, and magazines as it deems necessary.

IV.—CONSTITUTION.

The Association shall consist of—

- (a) The Central Authority.
- (b) District Authorities.
- (c) Local Branches.

- (a) The CENTRAL AUTHORITY shall operate nationally, and shall assist the District Authorities and Local Branches in all possible ways. It shall consist of District Authorities, affiliated bodies, and individual members.

Membership.—National movements, institutions, societies, and unions may become affiliated on payment of a minimum annual subscription of one guinea. Individuals may become members on payment of a minimum annual subscription of two-and-sixpence.

Management.—The management shall be vested in a Central Council, which shall consist of the officers, two representatives of each District Authority, and one representative of each affiliated body, with power to co-opt ten members of the Association.

The Council shall meet at least twice in each year, in such centres as shall from time to time be determined. It shall appoint such committees as it finds necessary.

Officers.—The officers shall consist of a President, Treasurer, and Secretary. The President and Treasurer to be elected annually by the Annual General Meeting. The Secretary shall be appointed by Central Council.

Annual General Meeting.—The Annual General Meeting shall be held on the 3rd Saturday in October of each year, in such centres as may from time to time be determined. To it shall be presented the statement of accounts (including the balance sheet of the District Authorities), and the annual report (including the reports of the District Authorities). Such statement of accounts and annual report shall be issued not later than the third Saturday in July. Notices of motion and nominations for President and Treasurer must be sent to the General Secretary not less than 28 days before the Annual General Meeting. The General Secretary shall issue the same to the District Authorities, Branches, Affiliated Societies, and members not later than 21 days before the Annual General Meeting.

To the Annual General Meeting shall be summoned :—

- (a) All the members of the Central Council, who shall have no power to vote unless the same be delegated to them by their respective authorities or societies.
  - (b) Two representatives from each District Authority, who shall have power to cast one vote for each individual member of, and thirty votes for each body affiliated by, the Branch.
  - (c) Two representatives from each Local Branch, who shall have power to cast one vote for each individual member of, and twenty votes for each body affiliated by, the Local Branch.
  - (d) One Representative for each body affiliated by the Central Authority, who shall have power to cast forty votes.
  - (e) All the individual members of the Central Authority, who shall each have power to cast one vote.
  - (f) All voting shall be by show of hands unless a card vote is demanded.
- (b) DISTRICT AUTHORITIES.—District Authorities shall be federations of District bodies and individual members. They shall operate over their respective areas, which shall be determined hereafter by the Central Council in consultation with the Local Branches and the existing District Authorities. Their constitutions shall be approved by the Central Council. Subject to the provisions elsewhere in this constitution, they shall be autonomous.
- (1) They shall pay to the Central Authority an annual contribution equivalent to two shillings in every pound of the total subscriptions received from individual members, affiliated bodies, and local branches.
  - (2) They shall submit an annual report and balance sheet to the Central Council not later than the second Saturday in July of each year for inclusion in the report of the whole Association.
  - (3) They shall appoint two of their members to serve upon the Central Council.
  - (4) They shall affiliate societies, institutions, and movements on payment of a minimum annual subscription of one guinea, and admit individuals as members on payment of a minimum annual subscription of two-and-sixpence.
  - (5) They shall admit to their Council, constituted on lines identical with those of the Central Authority, a representative or representatives of each local branch, and the President and Secretary (ex-officio) of the Central Authority.
- (c) LOCAL BRANCHES.—Local Branches shall operate over areas determined in consultation with the Council of District Authority. They shall be autonomous federations of individuals and local bodies with constitutions approved by the Council of the District Authority. They shall pay to the District Authority an annual subscription of one penny on every shilling of the total subscriptions of individual members and affiliated societies. They shall each be entitled to send one or more representatives to the District Council.

V.—ALTERATION OF CONSTITUTION.

No alteration of Constitution can be made except in the Annual General Meeting. Notice of any proposed alteration must be sent to the Secretary not later than the first Saturday in July of each year, so that it may be issued with the annual report for the time being.

THE W. E. A. ANNUAL MEETINGS.

GROUP OF DELEGATES AT BIRMINGHAM UNIVERSITY, OCTOBER 17TH, 1908.

W. E. A. Annual Meeting

Group of Delegates at Birmingham University, October 17th, 1908.

The Fifth Annual Meeting.

The Fifth Annual Meeting was held on Friday, October 16th, at the Birmingham Town Hall which was packed by members of Labour Organisations from all over the City. The Bishop of Birmingham presided and the speakers were :—

Sir Oliver Lodge.
Mr. C. W. Bowerman, M.P.
Mr. J. M. Mactavish.
Mr. W. A. Nicholls. (President of the N.U.T.)
The President.
Miss A. M. Royden and Miss J. P. Madams.

The following Resolutions were passed :—

That this National Demonstration representing Labour and Education, expresses its confidence in the unsectarian, non-party, democratic activity of the W.E.A. in attempting alike to stimulate and to satisfy the demand among workpeople for higher education, and affirms its belief in the vital and intimate connection between educational effort and the progress of social and economic reform.

That this National Demonstration, representing Labour and Education, is of opinion that the time is ripe for a wide extension of the facilities for the Education of English Women. It expresses its pleasure in the fact that the barrier of sex has not been erected at the new Universities, and hopes that in the near future it may be removed from the old.

OFFICIAL SESSION—OCTOBER 17th, 1908.

PRESENT.—There were present 200 delegates, including those from—
35 Branches and
42 Affiliated Societies.

The General Secretary took the chair in the absence of the Midland Chairman.

FOURTH ANNUAL MEETINGS.—The decisions of the Fourth Annual Meetings were read and approved.

HON. TREASURER.—The election of T. Edmund Harvey as Treasurer was confirmed with acclamation.

PRESIDENT.—The election of William Temple as President was confirmed, also with acclamation. The President was then installed by the General Secretary.

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS.—Mr. Temple delivered his Presidential address.

CONGRATULATION.—It was resolved to send a telegram of congratulation to Gilbert Murray, Member of the Association, upon his appointment as Professor of Greek in the University of Oxford.

ADOPTION OF REPORT AND BALANCE SHEET.—The Report and Balance Sheet were adopted unanimously after a lengthy discussion in which the following took part :—Mr. Argyle (Executive), Mr. Ewing (Manchester Branch), Mr. E. C. Duchesne

(Executive), Mr. Mabbs (Wellingborough Branch), Mr. Morgan (Birmingham Branch), Mr. Salter (South London Branch), Mr. Ranshaw (Bury Branch), Mr. Crofts (Ilford Branch), Mr. Colman (Birmingham Branch), Dr. Burn (Handsworth Branch), Mr. Jackson (Bristol Branch), Miss Royden, Miss Webb, Mr. Thomas (Leeds Branch), Mr. George (Swindon Branch), and Mr. Zimmern (Oxford).

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION.—Mr. A. E. Carter (Rochdale Branch) moved :—" That line 4 Section IV. (a) ' to co-opt 10 members ' do read ' to co-opt 10 members of the Association.' "

Mr. Sharp (Derby Branch) seconded.

It was unanimously agreed.

Mr. Salter (South London Branch) moved :—" That lines 1, 2, and 3 (part) Section IV. (a) do read : ' The Annual General Meeting shall be held on the second Saturday in August of each year, in Oxford and Cambridge alternatively during the period of the University Extension Summer Meetings, and that a Provincial Demonstration be arranged during the winter months.' "

(Note.—Other alterations to be made accordingly.)

Mr. H. C. Turner (South London) seconded. After discussion the resolution was lost by a large majority.

Mr. A. E. Carter (Rochdale) moved :—" That at the end of (e) Section IV. (a) ' (f) All voting shall be by show of hands unless a card vote is demanded ' " be added.

Seconded and agreed unanimously.

Mr. A. E. Carter (Rochdale) moved :—" That the final sentence Section IV. (c) do read : ' They shall be entitled to send one (not one or more representatives) representative to the District Council.' "

Seconded.

After discussion, by show of hands the President declared the resolution lost.

A card vote was demanded, the result of which was :—

For	..	..	..	..	3,928
Against	..	..	..	..	10,575

The resolution was therefore lost.

Mr. A. E. Carter (Rochdale) moved :—" That Section V. (Official Organ) be deleted.

Seconded and agreed unanimously.

AUDITOR.—On the motion of the President, Mr. T. B. Butterworth was re-appointed Auditor, and thanked for past services with acclamation.

NEXT MEETING.—An invitation from Sheffield was warmly endorsed by the Sheffield Delegate, and accepted with enthusiasm.

At 3 p.m. the Delegates were photographed.

At 4 p.m. an official reception was held at Birmingham University. The Principal, Sir Oliver Lodge and Members of the Professorial Staff received the Delegates. They were shown over the new Buildings of the University and entertained to tea. The President and Mr. Alderman Reuben George, of Swindon, expressed the thanks of the Delegates, to which the Principal, Sir Oliver Lodge, replied.

APPENDIX I.

Organisations Affiliated through Branches.

(In the case of organisations which are national the names given are generally the names of branches in the town.)

Each of these Societies has allotted to it 20 votes under the Constitution. In their hands and in the hands of the National Societies affiliated directly to the Central and District W.E.A.'s the control of the Association lies.

Any Society omitted from this list or any Society in it which is not now affiliated is asked to communicate at once with the General Secretary.

APPENDIX III.

Summary of Work done by the Oxford Joint Committee from January to April, 1909.*

A statute was passed through the Convocation of the University of Oxford on October 27th, 1908, empowering the University Extension Delegacy to form a committee consisting of working-class representatives in equal numbers with members of the Delegacy. The Joint Committee thus constituted desires to submit to the Consultative Committee of the Board of Education a short account of its first session's work, in the belief that the experience obtained by it of the desire of workpeople for higher education and of the difficulties by which their studies are beset should be given due weight in the formulation of any proposals which may from time to time be put forward for the further development in England of "Continued Education."

During the session 1908-1909 classes were conducted by the Joint Committee at the following places :

Chesterfield.	Oldham.
Glossop.	Rochdale.
Littleborough.	Swindon.
Longton.	Wrexham.

The number of teachers employed was three, one taking five classes, one taking two, and one taking one. Each class lasted for two hours, an hour being given up to the lecture and an hour to discussion. The subjects studied were Industrial History (except at Swindon) and Economics (at Swindon).

The students were mainly manual workers, with an intermixture of school teachers and business men.

Their age and occupation are shown in the following tables :—

It will be noticed from the above tables that over half of the students (60.5 per cent.) were under the age of 34. This is a highly satisfactory feature, both because it proves the interest in education taken by the younger generation of workpeople, and because a student who enters the classes when he is comparatively young is more likely to profit by them than one who is advanced in years. Nearly all the students, as to whom particulars are available, were workpeople in the narrower sense of manual workers, 59.1 per cent. being drawn from three groups of trades, engineering, textiles, and building, and the rest being scattered over a large number of different occupations. Of these who are not usually classified as "workpeople" the majority belonged to working-class families and were engaged in occupations (for example, as shop assistants) which, though distinguished by convention, are not in practice distinguishable from those employing artisans and labourers. It is gratifying, further, to note that many of the students are members of working-class organisations, such as trade unions and co-operative societies, as well as political organisations of a predominantly working-class character, and that several of them take a prominent part in the work of their societies in an official capacity. In short, the personnel of the existing eight Tutorial Classes may be said to be recruited almost entirely from the younger and more energetic members of the manual working-classes, who are keenly alive to civic questions and desire to improve their knowledge of them by impartial study.

The attendance of the students at the classes was highly satisfactory. All of them seem to regard the class as a serious engagement to which all others—except such as were absolutely unavoidable—must be postponed. Particulars are set forth below.

The paper work required from the students was the essay per fortnight, or 12 essays in the course of the session. It is not possible to present in tabular form the paper work done. But the tutors report that essays have been written with regularity, and that students who were unavoidably prevented (for example, by illness or overtime) from finishing them in the course of the session, are availing themselves of the six weeks after the end of the session allowed by the Committee to make up the required number. The essays varied in quality, as was natural in view of the dissimilar practice and experience of the writers. But nearly all improved very greatly in the course of the session, while some reached a very high standard indeed, and would bear comparison with those done by first-class students in the Final Honour Schools at Oxford. Many of the students have expressed to the teachers the great advantage which they are conscious of deriving from regular practice in putting their thoughts upon paper.

While the Joint Committee is of opinion that the experience obtained from the eight Tutorial Classes now in existence is most encouraging, it is met by certain grave difficulties which spring from the conditions of English educational and industrial organisations, and to which it thinks attention should be directed. (i) The deficient previous education of some of the students makes it very difficult for them to express themselves on paper. It sometimes happens that between the time when a student left the elementary school as a child, and the time when he enters the Tutorial Class as a man, his school equipment has become rusty, with the result that he finds difficulty in regular reading and writing and in giving

* The Longton Secretary writes : " At the beginning of the session in October, 38 students were in the class. Before Christmas eight of these ceased to attend, owing, in six cases at least, to unavoidable causes. The chief reason was unemployment."

† The Rochdale Secretary writes : " I am satisfied that the absences have been due to illness, trade union or professional duties, sickness at home, and similar unavoidable causes."

a coherent shape to his ideas. There is an urgent need for bridging the gulf between the elementary schools and manhood in some way. (ii) The prevalence of overtime and unemployment is a terrible handicap to the working-class student. Overtime, sometimes carried on night after night, exhausts his strength and leaves him neither time nor energy for serious study. Again and again keen students have reluctantly been obliged to put off writing papers because they have reached home so late as to have leisure only for a hasty meal.

The greatest single obstacle to the extension of adult education by means of evening classes is to be found in the long hours of labour. How small a guide the nominal hours in any trade are to the actual hours worked is shown by the following return obtained from an engineer who is a member of the Longton Tutorial Class :—

Week ending	Total Ordinary Time (excluding Meal Times).	Overtime worked.	Total Time worked.	Remarks

In this instance, if the student had worked the normal hours, he would have worked for 636 hours in the course of 12 weeks. In reality he worked 848½ hours, or 212½ in excess of the normal hours, and that at a time when trade was stated to be unusually depressed. It is a noteworthy fact that this particular student wrote in those 12 weeks nine papers, or three more than were required of him, in addition to doing some statistical work which was of benefit to the class as a whole. But in the case of less robust constitutions the strain of prolonged overtime, superimposed on hours which are already often too long, is crushing, and we desire to record our opinion that much of the apparent indifference of some classes of workpeople to higher education, as well as much physical debility, is due

ANNUAL REPORT

and Statement of Accounts,

— JULY 1st, 1910. —

The Association co-ordinates existing agencies and devises fresh means by which working people of all degrees may be raised educationally, step by step, until they are able to take advantage of the facilities which are and which may be provided by the Universities. It is a missionary organisation working in co-operation with education authorities and working-class organisations. It is definitely unsectarian, non-political, and democratic. It is a Federation consisting at present of 1,389 organisations including 511 Trade Unions, Trades Councils and Branches, 181 Co-operative Committees, 253 Adult Schools and Classes, 12 University bodies, 30 Local Education Authorities, 60 Working Men's Clubs and Institutes, 68 Teachers' Associations, 132 Educational and Literary Societies and 142 various Societies, mainly of work-people. It seeks to fulfil its objects in the following principal ways (a) By arousing the interest of the Workers in Higher Education, and by directing their attention to the facilities already existing; (b) by enquiring into the needs and feelings of the Workers in regard to Education, and by representing them to the Board of Education, Universities, Local Education Authorities, and Educational Institutions; (c) by providing, either in conjunction with the aforementioned bodies or otherwise, facilities for studies of interest to the Workers which may have been hitherto overlooked; (d) by publishing, or arranging for the publication, of such reports, pamphlets, books, and magazines as it deems necessary.

OF THE COUNCIL.

THE work of the Association is great. The difficulties are numerous which beset the extensive work of the Association, which at the close of the seventh year still proceeds steadily upon its way, stimulated by the fact that the work before it is necessary to the welfare of the race. It stands alone, as an organisation specially constructed to stimulate the demand for education amongst workpeople, and at the same time by constant and patient detailed effort to unite the force of educational demand with the force of educational supply, so that none be lost. The W.E.A. is steadfastly determined to keep to its own work and to leave to other bodies the alteration of the law; the arrangement of material resources; the conflicts of parties, either political or religious. All such matters lie within the province of other various organisations, the representatives of which help to make up the great body of the W.E.A. The W.E.A. draws its force and strength from the fact that there are 1,364 organisations which trust it and desire to use it for the educational advancement of their members specially, and of the community in general. These organisations know that the W.E.A. operates in a place of its own, which at no point overlaps the places of their own special work. Not one of them desires the Association to adopt the programme of any one body, but to develop a programme of its own, which shall be acceptable to all who, in the words of the Sheffield resolution, "desire a national system of education, which shall secure to every child, adolescent and adult, that education which is essential for the complete development of their own individual and corporate capacities." The affiliated bodies desire to emphasise the principle of the educational highway, which shall be free and open to those who are fitted to tread it, even though they possess no money. They know that any nation which believes in education as the fundamental source of its true power, will arrange its material resources so as to minister to educational needs.

The difficulties besetting our work were duly stated in the Sixth Annual Report. Among them, in addition to the normal ones of apathy and indifference, were specified too short a period of attendance at school, child labour during that period, unemployment, overtime, and bad housing, but the certainty was expressed that the co-operation of workpeople and scholars in educational work will reveal more clearly these obstructions on the educational highway.

The great principles of the Association have throughout the year, as heretofore, justified themselves in practice. We are not troubled by the difficulties ahead, although they are great. On the other hand, we are inspired by the victories of the past, which are greater than we deemed possible a few short years ago. The work accomplished has been so varied that we cannot possibly express it in this Annual Report. To give any idea of it, it would be necessary to publish lengthy diaries of the work of Central and District offices and detailed branch reports. Those who work with the Association are often too busy to record their work. It goes steadily on, week in week out, and reveals itself in the elevation of the line of thought obtaining in the meetings of workpeople everywhere, and in the more adequate perception on the part of educational bodies of the real needs of the people.

The President of the Association, now journeying to Australia, and who upon his return in the autumn will change his work among undergraduates at Oxford for the administration of Repton School, said in his annual address that the Association deals with the minds and spirits of men. That being so we must be content to go steadily on, leaving the real and true things which we do unrecorded, for after all it is only the superficial things which can get into reports. Suffice it to say that classes for men and women, and classes for women specially, have increased greatly, and frequently have taken the place of lectures, that all kinds of educational activity have been carried on dominated by the spirit of fellowship.

The important achievement of the year has been the development of Tutorial Classes. It is this work which has excited public attention. It is not by any means the largest part of the work of the Association, or the most important; it is simply an essential piece of work accomplished. The statistics which we give of it are satisfactory, but that which causes us most pleasure is that the meetings of the Tutorial Classes are gatherings of friends, and that the identity of the tutor is merged in the spirit of the class.

A traveller among the various branches during the past year must have been struck by the manner in which the members are everywhere drawing closer together, full of determination to take sufficient care of the institution they have created.

RECOGNITION OF THE ASSOCIATION.

The growth in public recognition of the Association's work has been very marked. Frequent reference has been made in the Press both at home and abroad. Articles upon its work in French, Hungarian, and German have been sent to us, in addition to those from the United States and the Colonies.

The official publications of the Board of Education contain generous and striking appreciations of the Association's activities. In the brief preface of an official publication on "The Course System in Evening Schools," published in June, 1910, the following words appear :—

"Up to the present the attention of Local Authorities and others interested in continuative education has been mainly concentrated on the provision of instruction with a definitely vocational bias, but it cannot be said that work of this kind, however good and well organised it may become, will exhaust the possibilities or, indeed, the duties of public educational authorities towards the adolescent workers of the country. They need, and are beginning to realise that they need, as the Workers' Educational Association has shown, opportunities for the more humane studies, such as history, literature, civics, economics, and the like, which may be prosecuted no less severely than technology or science, and which are likely to appeal to and to influence other and equally important aspirations."

The Adult School movement, which recognises in education an ideal identical with our own, passed at the meeting of its National Council the following resolution :—

"That the National Council of Adult Schools asks Albert Mansbridge to carry to the members of the Workers' Educational Association a warm message of fellowship and of thanks to them for their great assistance in its educational work."

The happy confidence and spirit of comradeship in which the Adult Schools have received the work of the Association is one of the most encouraging features of the year.

The Working Men's Club and Institute Union, which welcomed the formation of the Association at the outset, gave it financial assistance, and sent Mr. Jesse Argyle to represent it upon the Council, reports at length upon the work of the Association, and its President stated in his address that "no better piece of work has been done for labour in recent years."

The Co-operative Union, which has likewise been associated with us and helped us in the same way, reports that the work of the Association

"has developed greatly during the year, and has been successful in stimulating the demand of workpeople for education and in organising the supply. Its work is, however, national, and lies largely ahead."

The general appreciation of the movement may be gathered from a statement made by the Director of Education for Liverpool, that

"in ten or fifteen years' time the W.E.A. would be one of the most powerful Educational bodies in the whole country."

Or from that of Sir Oliver Lodge:

"I sometimes think that when in the course of twenty, thirty, or forty years the ordinary business of the University has migrated completely to Edgbaston, the Workers' Educational Association may have so developed that they will want Mason College for their own purpose."

The warm manner in which the Labour leaders have spoken of our work at Labour gatherings is also a matter for satisfaction. The striking testimony of Mr. D. J. Shackleton to the work of Tutorial Classes, made at the last Trade Union Congress at Ipswich, is a case in point:—

"We hope before long to have classes in every centre of industry, and from amongst the present students many capable and efficient teachers will arise. From these young men will come the future leaders of the trade union and labour movement. They will come not only with the practical experience of the factory and the workshop, but with a sound theoretical knowledge of the social, economic and industrial history of the national and local affairs of their country, which will more fully equip them for the ever increasing duties and responsibilities which an active life amongst the workers of this country demands."

A feature of the year has been the fact that for the first time invitations have been received from educational and working-class movements, to appoint fraternal delegates. We welcome this.

The desire expressed by Conferences of other bodies to have papers upon our work is frequently manifested, and during the first few months of the eighth year papers will be read at the National Union of Women Workers, the British Association and at the Brussels Exhibition.

Together with the Royal Academy and the British Academy, the W.F.A. is to be invited to appoint a representative on the governing body of the Shakespeare National Memorial Theatre.

THE GROWTH IN MEMBERSHIP.

The advance in membership is satisfactory. Seventy-one branches are now in existence, in spite of the fact that no active propaganda work to this end has been undertaken by the Central Office. The rise in the number of affiliated bodies still continues; their comprehensive nature is a matter of extreme interest. We notice with regret, however, that some of the local branches have not realised the importance of individual membership both as a means of spreading interest and of gaining financial assistance. Some branches, however, which started work upon the theory that individual members did not matter, are now proceeding to add to their number of members. There have been reductions in some branches, because, of course, the maintenance of an individual membership list needs a good deal of steady work, especially if a considerable part of the members were enrolled in the early enthusiasm of the start.

We would here and now make a strong appeal to branches to enrol as many workpeople as possible as new members; by having rights in the Association and exercising them they become more keen on its behalf. The affiliation of local bodies is not inconsistent with a large number of individual members, which is proved by the fact that the branch which has the largest number of affiliated bodies has also the largest number of individual members. It is certain that the number of affiliated Societies will grow, and the more so when branches of Trade Unions realise that they can become affiliated without infringing upon their legal limitations.

It may be well here to say that we think the time has come when every working-class organisation of standing should see to it that it has a voice, expressed through the Council, in the development of the force of the Association. This voice can be secured by the payment of a minimum annual subscription of £1 1s. Owing to the fact that the educational work which the Association has done has been so sound, there is a great tendency on the part of educational institutions to join. We want organisations of workpeople to realise that the future of the Association lies in their hands, for it is their mind and their spirit that will enable the Association to do its work.

EXPANSION.

Workpeople across the border have decided to form a Glasgow and West of Scotland Workers' Educational Association, but it is entirely distinct from the English movement, although formed upon the same principles.

Important steps have been taken at Belfast both by Labour bodies and by the University. A branch is in course of formation at Johannesburg in South Africa, and steps have been taken in Australia, both at Melbourne and Sydney. It has been reported to us that a W.E.A. has been formed at St. Louis, in the United States. In France the decline of the People's Universities, which a few years ago seemed so full of promise for the higher education of the workers in the great cities, has led French educationists to consider our methods. We are informed that we may expect an invitation from Paris during the coming winter to expound our principles there.

FINANCE.

It must be admitted that the financial problem is a serious one, and gives rise to much anxiety. Demands are being made to develop departments of the work which shall be economically profitable, but so far all that the Association has been able to do is to undertake the work of book-selling and educational supply agents, confined of course to its branches and kindred institutions.

The existing staff is inadequate for the volume of work which comes into the office, and the office is too small for the staff. New and larger premises are urgently needed. The reason for this is that the demands upon the Association are so great, because the work it has set out to do has been neglected for many long years, and because it is the only body specially constructed to deal with problems of working-class education. Whether it wishes or no, the W.E.A. is constantly being asked to aid in advising all kinds of educational bodies, Labour organisations and individuals, and it is this advisory work which makes such serious demands upon the staff.

It must be remembered that the Tutorial Class movement, which the Association has established, and must see through, also demands at present even greater attention than the officials of the Association—who are also officials of the Tutorial Classes Committees—can give. The work, moreover, does not as yet meet with adequate financial support, since the Tutorial Class movement is only in its initial stages, and it is well known that bodies empowered with the administration of funds desire to see the experimental work carried out before they will subscribe largely.

The Association in some respects falls between two stools. Working-class bodies say that educational institutions have large funds which were intended for the education of the poor, while officials of educational bodies say that the W.E.A. ought to derive its support from Co-operative Societies and Trade Unions. The truth lies to a great extent between the two, for with the exception of perhaps the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, there are not many bodies which possess endowments for the education of adults as such, and the funds of Co-operative Societies are already largely allocated by established customs to other uses, while Trade Unions and Friendly Societies are restricted by their statutes from making large grants. All we ask is that both sides should be as generous as they possibly can, and we do desire to record thanks to numerous Co-operative Societies, Trade Unions and other working-class societies, as well as to Universities, the Gilchrist Education Trust, and various Local Education Authorities for the help they have given us, without which our work would have been impossible. It is, however, clear that the W.E.A. must some day, and at the right time, ask the State for a grant. Many States—England is no exception—make grants to their Royal Academies of Arts and of Science; the W.E.A. is the Academy of the poor, and needs a grant as much as any of the bodies composed of learned men, whatever body it may be. This, however, is a matter for the future, but we believe that a State grant would have the support of all workpeople.

In the meantime we thank those workpeople and others who out of their interest in education make subscriptions and donations to our funds. We especially thank Lady Mabel Smith of Rotherham, who, after the Sheffield Conference, set to work to collect funds for the salary of Mr. Partridge, who was sadly overburdened by his dual work as knife-halter and as Secretary of the Sheffield W.E.A.

We have always welcomed, and shall always welcome help from any who care to give without stipulation of conditions. The only thing we have never done, and never will do, is to receive, from any individual or institution, offers of money which reveal an implication that more power than the voting power allowed by the Constitution is desired. The Constitution makes it quite plain that the Association is intended to be a democratic institution, the expression of the will of all its members.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

It is pleasing to record that the Board of Education has done all in its power to facilitate the work of the Association. Of course, it can make no grants other than for purely educational work, in accordance with the scales laid down in its regulations. The officials of the Board have taken great trouble to help our Local Secretaries, who have not had experience in the filling up of forms and in the administration of public educational work under the Board. It has been found from experience that Branch Secretaries will do well to make their applications for grant to the Central Office, which will forward them to the Board of Education. The Central Office will send out forms to each branch as soon as the new form is published by the Board. It is important that each Branch should endeavour to get grants for the work it carries on. This, of course, can only be done with the goodwill and co-operation of Local Education Authorities.

The General Secretary has retained his seat, throughout the year, on the Consultative Committee of the Board of Education; Mr. D. J. Shackleton, M.P., the North-Western Chairman, has resigned his seat, and his place has been taken by Mr. C. W. Bowerman, M.P., than whom the Association has had no warmer friend, and who has been greatly concerned in the development of Tutorial Class work.

In accordance with the instructions of the last Annual General Meeting, a special pamphlet on grants from the Board of Education and from Local Education Authorities also, has been prepared in a provisional form by Mr. J. G. Newlove, and has been circulated to Branch Secretaries for criticism and comment. It will be published at the earliest possible date as a pamphlet of the Association, for general distribution.

LOCAL EDUCATION AUTHORITIES.

Local Education Authorities continue to co-operate increasingly with the Association. No warmer testimony of our work can possibly be made than this. We urge every branch to endeavour to get financial assistance from the Local Education Authority, if not at the inception of its work, directly after it can make a good proposition. Substantial grants have been made to Reading (£20), Leicester (£20), and Birkenhead (£15), as well as to other Branches. It was a matter of encouragement to us that the Halifax Education Authority, which has developed its Evening Schools to a higher point than perhaps any other Authority in the country, welcomed the formation of a Branch of the Workers' Educational Association, and their decision was justified when they found it possible to add to their list of classes as a result of the Association's work. It is recognised by many Local Educational Authorities that the Association provides a ready means of expressing the needs of workpeople.

UNIVERSITIES.

In the matter of organisation, the most important piece of work during the year in connection with Universities has been the formation of the Central Joint Advisory Committee on Tutorial Classes. This remarkable Committee is made up of representatives of each University and University College in England and Wales. Each Joint Committee has the right to appoint a representative upon it who must be a workman. The fact that it is the first time the Universities of England have ever met under one roof for a specific purpose is worthy of interest. The Chairman of the Committee is Dr. Miers, Principal of the University of London, who is a direct lineal descendant of Francis Place; the Vice-Chairman is Mr. D. J. Shackleton, M.P.; the Treasurer is our President, and the Secretary our General Secretary.

The business of the Committee is of a purely advisory nature. Our hopes are high for it.

In addition to the Central Advisory Committee, numerous Joint Committees have been established, and the representatives of workpeople upon them are recorded elsewhere. It has not been possible, or even desirable, to secure exact uniformity, but the principle of equal representation, in accordance with the resolution of the Council, has been maintained.

"That this Council of the W.E.A. strongly re-affirms the principle governing the Oxford Joint Committee and others, namely, that there should be on such Committees direct representatives of Labour Organisations equal in number to the representatives of the Universities."

It is a significant fact that in Universities bodies sensitive to the needs of workpeople and capable of maintaining their true position have been established. It lies with the workpeople of the various Joint Committees to see that everything is done in harmony with the legitimate educational development of workpeople. As the Report of the Co-operative Union states:—

“These Committees afford the first opportunity ever given to workpeople as such, to take part in the administration of University work.”

The Workers' Educational Association takes every possible step and every opportunity to secure uniformity, and representatives of various Joint Committees have met on several occasions to discuss important points and to secure uniformity of action. We are glad to say that each Joint Committee has so far worked harmoniously and in accordance with their clearly defined plan.

The number of students in Tutorial Classes has thus risen during the year from 237 to 1,117, and it is generally recognised now that the movement is one of profound educational value, which is leading the way to practical educational discoveries. The only dangers it has to fear are the indifference of workpeople, other than the students, and any decline in the positive intention of workpeople representatives to seek to maintain a definite educational policy. Directly that positive intention becomes weakened, the older conventional methods of dealing with classes will have opportunity to regain sway.

The Workers' Educational Association maintains that the Tutorial Class is a new educational experiment, dealing with teaching problems from a new point of view, with a new type of student. It has been said that in a Tutorial Class there are not one teacher and thirty students but thirty-one students and thirty-one teachers. In this lies the difference between it and classes of adolescents or technical classes. The success of the classes appears to be invariable. The statistics of them are remarkable.

Some of our best Branches have no Tutorial Class, and it is probably desirable that they should not have at the present time, but when a Branch has a Tutorial Class it develops a strong educational backbone. Those who visit Branches of the Association can often tell where a Tutorial Class is in existence because of the presence of keen educationists developed by it.

The future of a class is in its own hands, and this is really why the Tutorial Class system is approved by leading workpeople. By the means of these Classes for the first time workpeople have a real opportunity of seriously and completely studying a subject, because in addition to their private reading and the meetings of their own Societies, in which some of them took so large a part, they now have the friendship of a fully equipped scholar and the use of reference books.

It would not be fitting to close this section without stating that about eighty students from Tutorial Classes will attend for purposes of special study during the months of July and August for a week or a fortnight each at Oxford. The students have provided their own funds, aided by grants from the Oxford Tutorial Classes Committee and the W.E.A., whilst twenty women students have received full grants from the fund raised by University women teachers. The first group of students gathered just as our seventh year closed, and the full report of the meeting will appear in our next Annual Report.

The W.E.A. party at the Oxford Summer Meeting in 1909 numbered 200. Rooms were granted by Balliol College, and much useful work was done.

EDUCATION OF WORKING WOMEN.

If it be true to say that the Tutorial Classes have been an important part of the year's work, it is further true to say that the important feature of the year's work has been the revival amongst working women. They have borne their part not only in the various classes which have been provided of a less strenuous nature than Tutorial Classes, but in the Tutorial Classes as well. Branch after Branch reports its success in this direction. Classes in all kinds of subjects have been held at the request of women, and a number of groups have studied literature. It seems probable there will be a much greater number of literature classes next winter, several new ones, including two in London, having been arranged for. In reference to Tutorial Classes, we may quote Huddersfield as an example: Six women made 142 attendances out of a possible 145, and the three absences were unavoidable. At Colne, on the night of a fierce snow-storm which stopped all the traffic, each woman student was present in her place.

The Advisory Committee on the education of working women has met frequently during the year under the Chairmanship of Miss Zimmern. They arranged an important Conference in March last, which was attended by representatives of the chief working women's movements. The Conference will meet again in the autumn, and forward work will then commence, which should result in the raising of this movement to a high level.

The problem of the education of workpeople is at the root a problem of the education of working women. Too much attention cannot be given to it, because if it is true, as has been sometimes said, that the British workman is disinherited in matters of education, it is ever more true to say that of the British working women.

A report like this must fail to give any impression of the steady pursuit of knowledge under incredible difficulties which is carried on patiently by women who have been at work in dressmakers' rooms or in mills through long days.

On July 9th the Council approved the appointment of a special organiser.

RURAL EDUCATION.

An Advisory Committee on Education in Rural Districts has sat on several occasions, and has decided to take steps to establish classes with a view to their ultimate development into a hostel in at least one district in the near future. Special literature is being prepared, and a rural campaign will be carried out with vigour. There is no reason why England should not follow the example of Denmark and secure the highest education of a liberal nature for its agricultural workers.

WEEK-END SCHOOLS.

The week-end at Hayfield suggested the holding of other week-end meetings, and it is expected that the Midland and North-Western Councils will arrange week-end gatherings in connection with the meetings of their councils.

A number of Yorkshire members desire a School to be held at Scalby at Easter in next year, and this will probably be arranged.

It has been urged that the Association should endeavour at the earliest possible moment to establish a permanent guest house in the country. It is believed that this could be done in such a way as not to involve the Association in financial liability. The guest houses of the Co-operative Holidays Association and of the Adult School movement have demonstrated this. Plans for the establishment of a London house are not put aside, but these are large matters deserving great deliberation and careful treatment, and no hasty decision must be come to upon them.

"THE HIGHWAY."

The circulation of THE HIGHWAY has risen from an average of just over 3,000 to 5,000 per month, and on one occasion it rose to 5,100. The roll of contributors to THE HIGHWAY, each and every one of whom we thank, is a roll of extraordinary brilliance, including as it does some of the greatest authorities in the country. The contributions have excited comments in all parts.

It may be said that THE HIGHWAY does not appeal to the workman who has no care for education, but it certainly appeals to the educated workman. We now know that it supplies a real want. As the circulation rises we shall be able to improve it by increasing its size and developing the quality of its letterpress and of its illustrations. The special task which the magazine will set itself next year is the development of the artistic capacity of the people.

We note that most of the branches which have supported THE HIGHWAY have made a small profit. We are of opinion that each Branch should purchase at least 24 copies, the quotation is low, 1s. 8d. carriage paid, so that Branches can make a profit even though the Central loses, and endeavour to increase that amount as soon as possible. There are some few branches which take no copies of THE HIGHWAY. We fail to understand why, because if THE HIGHWAY is not what they desire, yet we are striving hard to make it a paper which shall suit the needs of workpeople everywhere, and their co-operation is necessary. We have no doubt that those branches will show their loyalty to this side of the work of the Association during the year. The appointment of a Branch Literature Secretary is essential; the ordinary Secretary, with his multifarious duties, should not undertake the work of selling THE HIGHWAY, although some, to whom we pay tribute, do, and manage to increase the circulation.

THE EDUCATIONAL WORK OF THE CENTRAL AND DISTRICT OFFICES.

Deputation work goes on day by day, and the whole staff participate in it.

Large numbers of lectures have been arranged in all parts for Adult Schools, Trade Unions and Co-operative Societies. Courses of lectures and classes have been placed at the disposal of Branches. Lecturers have been sent weekly during the winter to the Hollesley Bay Labour Colony for the third winter in succession. As for conferences, it is the custom of some bodies to report those they attend; we find it impossible to report those we promote.

An interesting development of the year has been to unite in correspondence scholars and workpeople isolated or prevented from attendance at classes by shift work. Railwaymen are the most affected. In this way a number of University teachers, both men and women, are rendering great educational service. The W.E.A. guarantees to fix such students up, and it has indeed done so, not only in Industrial History but in Literature, Music and Theology. Sometimes a man will write: "I want to talk better sense in my Trade Union." Well and good, we find out where he is, what he knows, and then advise his reading. An interesting attempt to deal with the shift system obtaining amongst railwaymen in London resulted in the establishment at the Passmore Edwards Settlement, of a class by Mr. Newlove which duplicated its meetings in the morning and evening of the same day, thus any member could attend morning or evening as he desired, with the same result.

OTHER MOVEMENTS.

It is certain that the work of the Association has stimulated education in other movements, or in sections of other movements. Over and over again the district secretaries come into contact with effort which has been inspired by our example, and admission to this effect is given quite voluntarily. On the occasion of some future Annual Report we hope we shall be able to survey working-class activity over the entire field.

The Co-operative Movement proceeds upon its way, and we expect when Holyoake House is open (the memorial to the great leader of that name) an opportunity will arise for educational stimulus which will be of permanent effect. The Working Men's Club and Institute Union has done many remarkable things during the year. Its lecture lists have increased; it has given scholarships to Ruskin College and to the Cambridge Summer Meeting. This year it proposes to extend the scholarships. It also has a Tutorial Class of its own, and it looks forward to the future with great hope. The National Home Reading Union has attained to its coming of age and its activities are spreading specially among school children. The interest taken by Trade Unions is on the increase, and it is certain that the Unions are taking more interest in connection with the arrangements for education in their respective localities. There is, however, room for great increase in this direction. The number of educational resolutions passed by the Parliamentary Committee of the Trade Union Congress are on the increase, which is a good sign. The activities of the Adult School movement are, of course, multifarious, and their recognition of education as a legitimate part of their work is fully made. The growth of the Adult School movement is one of the most remarkable signs of the times. Its residential college at Fircroft and its Settlements at York and Leeds are doing remarkable work, and providing examples for future development.

THE OFFICIALS AND STAFF OF THE ASSOCIATION.

The persistent devotion and strenuous work of Mr. L. V. Gill in the North-Western section command our admiration and esteem. We are not without hope that he will be able to obtain assistance in the near future. His work in connection with the Joint Committees at Leeds, Manchester and Liverpool is very great. We have to thank the University of Manchester for a grant of £50 towards his services, and it is hoped that the Universities of Leeds and Liverpool will in the course of time be able to make grants also.

Mr. T. W. Price has been able to show a year of remarkable development in the Midland area. A great deal of his work has been designed to bear fruit in the future. This it will doubtless do, and we believe that the work in the Midlands will be as varied and rich in character as the work of the North-Western area.

Mr. S. Partridge has started work as a special organiser in the district of Sheffield. This was one of the direct results of the great gathering at Sheffield last year. He is already proceeding to establish Branches round about Sheffield. He is also a Joint Secretary of the Sheffield University Tutorial Classes Committee.

Too much praise cannot be given to the staff at the central office which, under the general direction of Mr. E. J. Hookway, works untiringly in the spirit of the movement. We hope that an improvement in the Society's financial position will prevent the great danger of overwork to which they are now constantly subjected. We think it only right to say that no Association could have a more devoted staff.

Nor can we close this section of the report without placing on record our appreciation of the magnificent services rendered to the Association in particular, and to the cause of Education in general, by Mr. A. Mansbridge, the General Secretary, and we feel that while he, with his tireless energy and unbounded enthusiasm, is at the helm, our cause cannot but prosper.

THANKS.

As in previous years we have to say that the thanks of the movement are due to many institutions and individuals, so we need give it but passing reference. The untiring energies of the Branch Secretaries are revealed in the reports they submit. It is indeed remarkable that so much voluntary work can be done in so orderly and regular a manner and with such a spirit of responsibility. The W.E.A. could not have been what it is without its Branch Secretaries and the various bodies of which we have made mention. To realise how many are these co-operating agencies, one must turn to the list of affiliated bodies which is given in the directory to this report. The W.E.A. spirit is strong among a large and increasing number of workpeople. These workpeople are ready in season and out of season to work for the W.E.A., and it is because of this spirit that we look forward with hope to the future.

FINALLY.

Once again, after detailing all these causes for encouragement, we would pause to say that after all the Association is still only on the threshold of its work. It is indeed ready for a great step forward. The signs of the times indicate that that step forward will have to be taken soon and in power. The working people of England are hungry for education, which they interpret as the development of their capacities to the highest possible level, and they realise that it is mainly a matter of character. They want to do the right thing at the right time, and to have opportunities for complete development. In the day when these things come, there will be happy and true life in England.

The W.E.A. turns to another year's work inspired by the mutual trust and confidence of its members, which alone will enable it to overcome the difficulties it meets as it strives to construct the educational Highway of its desire.

Signed on behalf of the Council,

ELEANOR BARTON, Acting Chairman.

T. EDMUND HARVEY, Hon. Treasurer.

ALBERT MANSBRIDGE, Secretary.

(a) MIDLAND.

DURING the past year the Midland Council has been compelled, through lack of funds, to discourage the formation of new Branches; but in spite of this five Branches have been added—at King's Norton, Mansfield, Wrexham, Smethwick, and Kidderminster. Far more gratifying, however, than the formation of new Branches has been the steady progress made by existing Branches during the last twelve months.

At Birmingham a series of popular lectures have been given during the Winter on "Birmingham Institutions," and Classes have been held for the study of Elementary Economics, Industrial History, Poor Law History, British Institutions, Industrial Conditions, the Legal Position of the Working Man, and the Theory of Money and Growth of Banking. To these must be added a course of lectures on "Turkey in Europe," delivered at the Midland Institute by Canon Masterman, and attended by 160 W.E.A. students. The students attending the classes and lectures have elected a Committee, the function of which is to develop the social side of the classes, and to act in an informal way as an Advisory Committee to the Branch Executive in the organising of lectures and classes. Much valuable work has been done by this Committee in making the classes, etc., successful, and in arranging socials and educational visits. The Committee has made itself responsible for the arrangement of the Summer programme, the success of which has so far been remarkable. The lady members and students have formed a Women's Committee to investigate and stimulate educational demand among women, with a view to enabling the Branch to organise lectures and classes in subjects that are of special interest to the sex. During the year the Branch has assisted the educational work of the local Adult School movement by arranging and delivering courses of lectures in the Schools. Over 280 lectures have been arranged during the past year. The Branch has now formed a Joint Committee with the Midland Adult School Union with a view to carrying out the educational programme recommended by the National Adult School Council. For this work the Branch has been able to enlist the services of many members of the University.

The membership of the Branch is increasing rapidly. With a view to facilitating the work of organisation District Committees are being formed, and by means of these it is hoped that the present rate of progress will be not only maintained but increased. The programme for 1910-11 will include a course of popular lectures on "Makers of History in the 19th Century," Tutorial Classes on "Industrial History," "Psychology," and a class on "Representative English Women Writers," all of which will be held in the University. W.E.A. members will in addition be able to attend a course of lectures to be delivered at the Midland Institute by Canon Masterman, on the United States.

At Coventry a course of lectures on the "Institutions of Coventry" has been given, and a class, conducted by Canon Masterman, has been formed to study Industrial History.

At Derby a very successful course of lectures on "Oriental Religions and Philosophies" have been held.

At Dudley, in addition to a Tutorial Class (the first organised under the auspices of Birmingham University), the Branch has co-operated with the Industrial Law Committee in promoting a series of lectures.

During the Winter the Handsworth Branch has held a successful series of miscellaneous lectures, which have been flanked by more serious work in classes formed to study "Ruskin," and "English History."

The King's Norton Branch, although only formed in August, 1909, has had a remarkably successful session. In addition to a Tutorial Class the Branch has successfully arranged a course of popular lectures on "Famous Men and Women," and classes on Economics, History, Factory Legislation, History of the 18th Century, and English Literature.

At Leicester a Tutorial Class has been held and courses of lectures on "Social Teachers in Literature," "The Growth of Democracy," "India," and "Life in the Middle Ages," have been arranged.

Among the important features of the work of the Walsall Branch have been a very successful class for the study of Citizenship, and a course of lectures on "The English Poor Law."

At Wolverhampton much pioneer work is being found necessary. Miscellaneous lectures have been arranged during the Winter, but the great work of the Session has been the organising of visits to the various municipal undertakings, followed by a lecture upon the institution visited.

The Worcester Branch has organised, at the request of the local Society of Ironfounders, a class for the study of Metallurgy. This is the first W.E.A. class formed for the study of a purely technical subject, and the result has been to prove that technical education, taken in the W.E.A. spirit, is as sure a path to liberal education and culture as are any of the recognised "humane" studies. There can be no doubt that the formation of this class is an important contribution to the movement.

The Branch at Mansfield was only formed in October last, and has been unable to do more than pave the way for the Session 1910-11, when it is hoped to arrange a Tutorial Class under the auspices of Nottingham University College. The Branches at Wrexham, Smethwick, and Kidderminster also, having been formed within the last few months, have no record of work done, but in each case there is every prospect of success.

The formation, in connection with the University of Birmingham, of a Joint Board for the organisation of Tutorial Classes in the Midlands is one of the most important events of the past few months. In these classes working men and women will be afforded an opportunity of pursuing a serious, systematic, course of study, extending over a period of three years, under the best possible educational conditions. The Joint Board consists of six representatives from the University, and one representative each from the South Staffordshire Federation of Miners, the Midland Counties Trades Federation, the Midland Section of the Co-operative Union, the Midland Adult School Union, the Birmingham Trades Council, and the Midland District of the W.E.A. The Treasurer of the Midland District has since been appointed. Two Tutorial Classes will be held in Birmingham next Winter, and one each at Derby, Dudley, Northfield, and one either at Smethwick or at Kidderminster.

The Association has to meet special difficulties in the Midlands. The apathy of the working men and women of the Midland Counties is proverbial, and in consequence the Association has continually to turn aside from its work of focusing and organising educational demand, and to devote all its energy and attention to creating a demand. This involves pioneer work of a most arduous and disheartening character, and entails an enormous expenditure of energy for apparently small results. Nevertheless, sure and steady progress is being made, and will be continued if adequate financial support is forthcoming. Probably no district stands in so great a need of increased financial support at the present moment as does the Midlands and certainly nowhere will the ultimate return be greater. It has needed the expenditure of much money and energy to set the ball of higher education rolling in the Midlands, but now that motion has been given to it there is every prospect that it will go forward with ever increasing speed. There is much room for satisfaction in the present, and the future is full of hope. The only cloud upon the horizon is that of inadequate finances; a cloud which might easily be dispersed with the aid of the organisations and individuals in the Midlands who realise the value of education.

On behalf of the Council,

C. BIRMINGHAM, Chairman.

T. W. PRICE, Secretary.

(b) NORTH-WESTERN.

The past twelve months have been marked by great progress in every way—in strength, in activity, in interest and enthusiasm, in the quality and quantity of educational effort.

There are now thirty-one Branches in the District, nine new ones having been successfully inaugurated during the year, viz., Chesterfield, Castleford, Bradford, Hebden Bridge, Crewe, Brighouse, Ashton-under-Lyne, Halifax and Bolton. Provisional Committees have been appointed at Bacup, Chester and Leigh, while preliminary Conferences have been held at Lancaster, Rotherham and Churwell. Inquiries have been received from several other places. The older Branches remain strong and active, while the new Branches have got to work with an energy which in some cases is almost startling.

The organisations affiliated in the area have increased by ten, making a total of thirty-three. The new ones comprise Co-operative Societies at Runcorn and Widnes, Marsden, Bradford, Stockport, Barnsley, and Blackpool; the Yorkshire Federation of Trades and Labour Councils, the Rotherham Trades Council, and the Lancashire County Association of Teachers. A strong effort is to be made to secure the affiliation of other organisations.

Proof is being constantly afforded that the co-operation of these affiliated bodies is real and effective. For instance, the formation of the Bolton Branch is almost entirely due to the initiative and generosity of the Co-operative Society; the Failsworth Co-operative Society is organising a Tutorial Class; the Working Men's Clubs Association provides our Branches with lectures; the active goodwill of the Trades Councils Federations brings with it that of these Councils themselves, and through them of the Trade Union Branches. Through these and other influences we find, on approaching a town friends ready to receive us, and the field half won. The Ashton Branch owes its start to the Trades Council, and Lancaster is following suit.

The development of the Tutorial Class movement is the most striking feature of the year. The Classes already in existence in this area—Rochdale, Littleborough, Oldham, Glossop, and Chesterfield—have satisfactorily continued their work. New Classes have been formed at Rochdale, Huddersfield and Halifax, under the Oxford Committee; at Manchester (two classes), Oldham, Chadderton, Blackburn, Bolton, Chorley, Colne, and Nelson, under the Manchester Committee; at Bradford, Brighouse, Castleford, Hebden Bridge and Wakefield, under the Leeds Committee; and at Liverpool and Birkenhead by Liverpool University. These Classes have all reached the high standard set by the earlier ones. Modern History at Colne, Natural History at Chadderton, and English Literature at a provisional class in Manchester University, have formed interesting and welcome variations in the otherwise uniform demand for economic subjects. Additional Classes are being organised by the various Joint Committees (including those newly formed at Liverpool and Sheffield), but it is already certain that the demand for new Classes will outstrip the available resources. It is gratifying to note the substantial financial assistance rendered to these Classes by Local Education Authorities, while the Library Association and Public Libraries are doing much to solve the book problem.

In contemplating the wonderful growth of Tutorial Classes the other work of our Branches must not be overlooked. It is almost bewildering in its variety. Lectures and Classes—many of them given at great personal sacrifice—on nearly every conceivable subject; rambles, excursions, Continental tours, the issuing of calendars, hand-books, and lecture lists; the organising of voluntary educational effort; propaganda and missionary work; the consideration of educational problems from the workers' point of view—of these and other activities the Branch reports are full. One serious problem confronts some Branches—the difficulty, amounting almost to impossibility, of making University Extension Courses pay for themselves.

The Annual Meeting of the W.E.A. and the memorable demonstration at Sheffield in October, 1909, were an inspiration and a stimulus to the whole District.

The rapid growth and the complexity of its work have compelled the North-Western Council to pay much attention to its own organisation. It has formed an Executive Committee, elected ten members to the Council, and is now considering a scheme for holding divisional meetings which will, it is hoped, without weakening the unity of the whole district, enable outlying and less prosperous Branches to share the pleasure and benefit derived from gatherings of fellow workers.

Financially the outlook is much more hopeful. The income from branches and affiliated Societies is steadily increasing, while very welcome subscriptions, large and small, from individual well-wishers are helping to build up an organising fund, so that at no distant date the District may cease to be a burden on the Central funds of the Association.

Much has been accomplished; still more remains to be done. The success already achieved, the unity and enthusiasm everywhere manifest, enable us to face our "gigantic task" with hope, with courage, and with determination.

(c) NORTHERN.

A powerful provisional Committee, authorised by a representative Conference of Labour and Educational Organisations, has been at work for some time drafting a constitution and preparing a plan of action. A number of Societies have become affiliated and the work will go forward after the Conference to be held on October 29th, for the purpose of confirming the Constitution.

TUTORIAL CLASSES.

JOINT COMMITTEES.

Joint Committees consisting of an equal number of Labour representatives and of University representatives have been constructed in connection with the Universities of Birmingham, Liverpool, London, Manchester, Oxford and Sheffield, and one at Leeds, consisting of an equal number of Labour representatives, University representatives, and representatives of the West Riding County Council.

Among the bodies appointing representatives on Joint Committees are :—

Parliamentary Committee of the Trade Union Congress.

Co-operative Union.

Working Men's Club and Institute Union

Amalgamated Society of Engineers.

Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants.

The Staffordshire Miners' Federation.

Midland Federation of Trades Councils.

Birmingham Trades Council.

Midland Adult School Union.

Yorkshire Federation of Trades Councils.

Mersey Union of Adult Schools.

Lancashire and Cheshire Federation of Trades Councils.

Liverpool Typographical Society.

Liverpool Printing and Kindred Trades Federation.

Liverpool Trades and Labour Council.

London Society of Compositors.

National Conference of Friendly Societies.

Amalgamated Association of Weavers.

Lancashire and Cheshire Miners' Federation.

Sheffield Trades and Labour Council.

Sheffield Federated Trades and Labour Council.

The Vice-Chairmen so far appointed of the various Committees are :—

Central Joint Advisory Committee	..	D. J. Shackleton, M.P.
Leeds University Committee	.. ..	F. W. Jowett, M.P.
London       "       "	.. ..	C. W. Bowerman, M.P.
Manchester   "       "	.. ..	J. R. Clynes, M.P.
Oxford       "       "	.. ..	D. J. Shackleton, M.P.
Sheffield     "       "	.. ..	R. Holmshaw, J.P.

Each Committee has Joint Secretaries, one representing workpeople and one the University.

It is expected that each University and University College in England and Wales will arrange Classes in the near future. Many others will do so next Winter.

NOTE.—The reports of the University Joint Committees can be obtained from the Universities concerned. A report will also be published on the whole movement by the Central Joint Advisory Committee.

Library Facilities for Classes.

The Library Association has helped us in all possible ways in order that we may solve our book difficulty.

A Joint Committee of Manchester University and the North-Western Branch of the Library Association was established and made certain recommendations which they hope, and we hope too, will be considered by Library Committees and working class organisations interested in the development of classes for workpeople.

- (1) That the chief librarians of public libraries should be kept fully informed of the establishment in their districts of tutorial classes or other courses of studies for workpeople, of the books needed by the students in public libraries, and of any assistance that can be given by such institutions.
  - (2) That "students' rooms" should be provided in public libraries for the use of tutorial class students and others; where local arrangements do not permit of the provision of a students' room that a table for students be set apart in the general reading room.
  - (3) That the books required by students should be placed in the Reference Library and in the Lending Library, one copy at least in each department. Where funds do not permit of the provision of the duplicate copies, that all the books in the public library on the subject of the class should be placed temporarily in the Reference Room, so that an increased number of students may have the opportunity of consulting them.
  - (4) That the Chief Librarians of Public Libraries should place together all the books on the subject taken by the class, and that students be permitted to have free access to them.
  - (5) That the Chief Librarians of Public Libraries should compile classified lists of books on the subjects of the classes, and that such lists be exhibited in the class rooms and the Public Libraries.
  - (6) That, if the class agrees, the books supplied by the University for the use of students be housed, where possible, at the Public Library.

Extracts from Branch Reports.

Members requiring full information concerning the work of any Branch should write to the Branch Secretary, whose address will be found in the Directory.

Each Branch expresses thanks to such bodies as Local Education Authorities, Co-operative Societies, Education Institutes, Free Libraries and Museums for generous help given.

MIDLAND BRANCHES.

A course of popular lectures on "Birmingham Institutions" has been held, and also classes on Elementary Economics, Industrial History, Poor Law History, British Institutions, Industrial Conditions, Legal Position of the Working Man, and The Theory of Money and the growth of Banking. 160 W.E.A. students also attended a course of lectures at the Midland Institute on "Turkey in Europe." The lady members and students have formed a Women's Committee to investigate and focus the educational demand among women. Over 280 lectures have been given in the Adult Schools by representatives of the W.E.A. during the past twelve months. The Branch has now formed a Joint Committee in conjunction with the Adult School Union with a view to organising the lectures more effectively. The membership of the Branch is increasing rapidly, and with a view to facilitating the task of organising the city, District Committees are being formed. A series of educational visits and rambles have been arranged for the Summer and are proving extremely successful. "Highway" circulation 500.—Birmingham.

A course of lectures on "The Institutions of Coventry" have been given, and a class formed for the study of Industrial History.—Coventry.

A series of six lectures on "Oriental Religions and Philosophy" has been held, and large and appreciative audiences obtained. The Branch has assisted in University Extension work to the utmost of its power, and hopes to have a Birmingham University Tutorial Class next session.—Derby.

A successful Tutorial Class has been held, and there has also been a course of 4 lectures on "Industrial Law," and several miscellaneous lectures. A programme of rambles has been arranged for the summer.—Dudley.

19 lectures on various subjects have been held and were attended by an average audience of 150 on each occasion. Two weekly classes have also been held at which the attendance has been upwards of 20. The subjects chosen for study were respectively "Ruskin," and "English History."—Handsworth.

The Branch has had a remarkably successful session. Quite a number of classes have been held in such subjects as Economics, Industrial History, Factory Legislation, 18th Century History, and English Literature. A Tutorial Class has been arranged under the auspices of the Branch.—King's Norton.

The Branch has done first-rate work. In addition to a Cambridge University Tutorial Class, two courses of lectures have been held, on "Social Teachers in Literature," and the other on "The Growth of Democracy." Lectures on "India" and "Life in the Middle Ages" have also been given. Educational visits to churches and other buildings were arranged.—Leicester.

Miscellaneous lectures have been arranged, and visits organised to various municipal undertakings and institutions. Wherever possible these visits have been followed by lectures upon the undertaking or institution visited. A summer programme of rambles, etc., has been arranged and is proving very successful.—Wolverhampton.

At the request of the Branch, the local Education Authority arranged a Class for the study of Metallurgy, which has been attended by 30 students, most of whom are engaged in the metal industry. The teacher of the Class, Dr. Woolatt, has expressed his satisfaction with the progress made by the students. A summer programme of rambles, visits, etc., has been arranged.—Worcester.

NORTH-WESTERN BRANCHES.

The Preliminary Tutorial Class led by Mr. R. H. Tawney proved a success in every way. The discussions are being continued during the summer months. A full Manchester Tutorial Class will be held next session.—Ashton-under-Lyne.

A Liverpool University Tutorial Class on "The Evolution of Modern Social Conditions," led by Mr. P. M. Roxby, B.A., was successful. A well attended class for the study of "Plato's Republic" was formed by Mr. Bryn Jones.—Birkenhead.

The year was full of work. The Education Committee made a grant of £10 per annum. The Manchester University Tutorial Class led by Mr. H. M. Hallsworth was a great success. A Locomotive Class was formed by the Local Education Authority upon request. A class in Botany has been greatly enjoyed, as also has been an Elocution class. Popular lectures were attended by crowded audiences. The average attendance at the women's Literature class was 40. The class is growing. The Education Authority and the Free Library Committee have done everything possible. There will be frequent rambles during the summer.—Blackburn.

The Branch has just started. The Tutorial Class led by Mr. H. M. Hallsworth, and managed by the Bolton Education Authority, which does everything it possibly can for Bolton, has been a great success.—Bolton.

The Branch should ultimately become one of the strongest in the Association. Educational enthusiasm in Bradford is higher than in most towns. A Tutorial Class founded by the Branch has been taken over entirely by the Bradford Education Authority. The interest of the Co-operative Society is great; it was responsible for the starting of the Branch. Educational visits are being paid during the summer. A long and steady effort will be made during the coming year.—Bradford.

The Branch estimates that 1,500 people have come under its educational influence. The Tutorial Class led by Mr. H. Clay has been very successful. The Branch is quite new.—Brighouse.

The Branch is proceeding steadily, and has organised University Extension lectures and classes for women.—Bury

---

The Tutorial Class led by Mr. Gerard Collier was the main work of the Branch—which is as the result of its first year's work about to make a strong forward move, ment.—Castleford.

---

The Branch was started by members of the Oxford Tutorial Class led by Mr. R. H. Tawney during the last 2 years. The Branch is arranging forward work in connection with further classes for next winter, and the attendance at evening schools.—Chesterfield.

---

The first year's work has been one of remarkable success. One thousand copies of the annual guide and calendar were printed. The Manchester University Tutorial Class led by Mr. R. B. Forrester was a great success. The rambling club has been an unqualified success, and the educational information and objects gathered have formed the backbone of social evenings during the winter. The Branch looks forward to a huge membership in the future when it can find time to take the question of organisation seriously into consideration. The work is so pressing that the getting of members has to stand aside, at the same time there are 42 societies affiliated. "Highway" circulation increasing.—Chorley.

---

The course of lectures on "The Struggle of the Masses for Enfranchisement" was attended by about 70 people at each lecture. The Manchester University Tutorial Class led by Mr. Hovell was very successful.—Colne.

---

The Economics course led by Mr. W. H. Pringle has been the chief work of the year. A course of lectures on subjects of interest to working people has also been held.—Dewsbury.

---

The Oxford University Tutorial Class led by Mr. Kolthammer has continued its successful work, and the students during the summer are carrying out research into the Industrial conditions of North Derbyshire. A women's Tutorial Class in Literature was led by Miss A. M. Royden. A Choral Society with 45 members, and a Literary and Debating Society have also been organised, in addition to lectures and rambles. There is much distress in the district owing to trade depression. The Choral Society has given a concert.—Glossop and Hadfield.

---

The Branch has made a first-rate start. The Oxford University Tutorial Class led by Mr. H. Clay has been very successful. The classes for women were in conjunction with the Local Education Authority and exceeded all anticipations; the total average attendance was over 100, and it was expected that 3 women's classes would be held next year. The Branch has had the benefit of the experience of Dr. Burn, who was responsible for the foundation of the Handsworth Branch.—Halifax.

---

The Branch is proceeding to perfect its organisation. The Leeds University Tutorial Class led by Mr. H. Clay has had a successful session.—Hebden Bridge.

---

The Oxford University Tutorial Class led by Mr. Kolthammer has been very successful. The Huddersfield Education Committee has made a grant of £10 towards its maintenance. A course of lectures was arranged for Saturday evenings. Museum talks for working men were much enjoyed.—Huddersfield.

The Branch proceeds steadily. Special facilities are given by the University of Leeds to members, and a number attended special courses at the University given by Dr. Chapman, Dr. Moorman and Professor Macgregor. A number of educational visits have been paid. Reading circles have been formed in 3 districts of the town.—Leeds.

Special health lectures for women. The Oxford University Tutorial Class has finished its second year's work. About 100 lectures were given to affiliated societies. The number of persons under the educational influence of the Branch is given as about 600 or 700.—Littleborough.

---

The formation of two University Tutorial Classes has been the chief work of the year. Lectures have been given to Branches of the A.S.R.S.—Liverpool.

---

The Branch has confined itself to the organisation of Tutorial Classes in Economics and Industrial History, and a preliminary class in English Literature. The organisation of Manchester is one of the problems of the future. An attractive series of public lectures on Manchester Interests will be delivered by prominent Manchester men during the Autumn.—Manchester.

---

The Manchester University Tutorial Class led by Mr. Hallsworth has been very 'successful. A forward movement has been made in the endeavour to provide affiliated societies with local lecturers. The Local Education Authority made a grant of £20 towards the cost of the Tutorial Class together with free use of rooms for both winter and summer sessions. The Co-operative Society has also granted free rooms.—Nelson.

---

The Branch has had 3 University Tutorial Classes at work under its auspices. This is a record. They have all been successful. The attendance at the Oxford University Class during its second year is the best in the whole Tutorial Class system. Lectures to Sunday-school teachers, classes for women, visits and educational rambles help to swell the list of activities. The "Highway" circulation is 262.—Oldham.

---

The number of societies affiliated to this Branch has risen, and the individual membership also. The most striking feature of the year was the tour in Germany. During the summer, Museum talks, Preparatory Classes for University Extension courses to be held, a large class in Economics in co-operation with the Ruskin class were matters carried out. The 8th Handbook and Calendar was published. Two courses of University Extension Lectures were held. Two Oxford University Tutorial Classes continued their successful work. Among other matters may be mentioned, a course of Saturday evening lectures, two successful afternoon courses for women. Courses of Lectures were given by members all over the district. The "Highway" circulation is 500.—Rochdale.

The great demonstration in connection with the Annual Meeting has stimulated this Branch. The Secretary is now able to give much more of his time to the work, and as a result of this arrangement the problem of Sheffield will undoubtedly be solved. Classes were held in connection with the University on "The History of Political Theory" and "The Growth of Democracy." Tutorial Classes in connection with the University of Sheffield are being arranged for next winter.—Sheffield.

A Provisional Tutorial Class led by Mr. Thos. Bank, of Colne, has proved a great success. Arrangements are being made to have a full Tutorial Class. Literary talks were held at the Free Library and a great evening was spent with Halley's comet.—Todmorden.

A Leeds University Tutorial Class was carried on with success. A useful course of lectures was organised. A Reading Circle has met weekly to study John Stuart Mill. Scholarships were awarded at the University Extension Summer Meeting. Lectures were also given on the premises of the Working Men's Club. The working men of Wakefield are making renewed effort to extend the influence of the Branch.—Wakefield.

WELSH BRANCHES.

The Branch has held steadily together, and rejoices in the fact that 6 of its members are on the Technical Education Committee, which has helped the ideas of the Association to be realised rather rapidly in regard to the educational administration of the town.—Abertillery.

The Branch has had grave difficulties owing to the illness of the Secretary. The Barry comrades are keeping things together and are about to make a forward movement.—Barry.

The Branch has suffered from the difficulties of a large town, but a course of lectures was given by Mr. Denny at the Cardiff University Settlement.—Cardiff.

Merthyr has had monthly meetings with papers on literary and scientific subjects. Three public lectures were held and visits to places of municipal and other interests were made.—Merthyr.

The Branch arranged a course of University Extension Lectures aided by the Glamorgan County Council and the Pontypridd Urban District Council, but in spite of this the financial liability is heavy. They are arranging lectures for next year, and the President of the National Union of Teachers is already engaged to lecture to them.—Pontypridd.

GENERAL.

A London University Tutorial Class proceeded to its third session. Classes have been held on "Poverty and the State" and "Dickens as a Social Reformer," together with a class for home nursing. In the summer a French class was held. The Branch has given rise to the Adult School movement in Battersea.—Battersea (South London).

The Branch makes steady progress. It has had several excellent lectures and assisted the University Extension work in Bournemouth. A Tutorial Class is being organised for next session.—Bournemouth.

The Branch has done wonderful work in many directions. Its joint work with the Bristol Adult School Union is of national importance. 270 study circle meetings have been held. Scholarships were given to the Summer Meeting at Oxford. Numerous lecture courses have been held including one on "Nineteenth Century Movements" and another on "The Reign of Queen Victoria." Numerous Saturday afternoon lectures and rambles have been held. The Branch has arranged its Council Meetings a year in advance, and looks forward to continued development. The "Highway" circulation is 300.—Bristol.

The Branch was formed in September, 1909, and is steadily increasing in strength. Lectures have been held on "Public Health Administration," on "Japan," and on "The Industrial Revolution." The "Highway" circulation has increased.—Croydon.

---

The Branch has steadily increased. The Saturday afternoon visits and lectures during the summer of 1909 were much appreciated. Several lectures have been held and it was decided to start an Horticultural Association, and to press for the establishment of a Home Making centre. Visits with educational lectures were continued during the winter. In the course of an evening school visitation, much valuable information in regard to the employment of boys was obtained. A Handbook was published.—Gloucester.

---

A Provisional Tutorial Class in "Industrial History" led by Mr. P. A. Brown was very successful. Various classes were held for the study of "Democracy in the 20th Century" and in "Literature."—Guildford.

---

Reading Circles and Dramatic Readings, Astronomy and Discussion of the Poor Law have been carried on. A course of Oxford University Extension Lectures was organised on "Greater Britain, or the Rise and Development of the British Colonies." New Club premises have been secured. A course of miscellaneous lectures proved successful.—High Wycombe.

---

The Essex County Council still continues the University Extension Lectures which were organised by the Branch. The Tutorial Class, led in the first place by Mr. F. H. Keeling, and afterwards by Mr. E. Cleveland Stevens, has been successful. A series of lectures for women have been organised with an average attendance of 70.—Ilford.

---

A course of Cambridge University Extension Lectures was organised on Electricity by Mr. Hume Rothery. The Branch hopes to form study circles next winter, if not a Tutorial Class.—Kettering.

---

The success of this Branch has lain in the Art Exhibition, which induced the Town Council to appoint a Committee to arrange for a permanent Art Gallery. The lectures given by Professor Lees Smith on "The Making of Modern England" had an average attendance of 150.—Northampton.

---

A Cambridge University Tutorial Class in Industrial History has been organised also a class for those who did not find it possible to enter the University Tutorial Class. The number of students was 31. A course of 3 lectures in Industrial Law was also organised. About 100 were present on each occasion.—Portsmouth.

---

The pioneer Branch has had a very successful year's work. The lecture audiences were much larger than in any previous session. Classes have been held by the College and were well attended. A Reading circle has also been formed. Arrangements are well forward for a Tutorial Class in connection with University College.—Reading.

A course of 8 lectures on "Modern European History" by Mr. H. G. Wood proved successful, and were well attended. The Branch visited Cambridge University.—Rushden.

Sixteen Lectures and Classes were held during the winter session. The attendance was not always satisfactory, but good discussions followed, and the papers written by the students were favourably commented upon.—Southampton.

The Branch has maintained its work. Sub-branches of Battersea and Southwark organised successful classes. Reading circles and rambles were organised. The Branch is revising its Constitution with a view to extending its efforts in the whole of the London area. A three-days trip to Belgium was organised.—South London Branch.

A number of educational rambles and visits have been arranged in addition to a number of lectures. Two classes, one in Industrial History, led by Mr. Gerard Collier, and one in Economics led by Dr. Fay, were successfully held. In addition a short course of lectures in Industrial History was given by Mr. H. C. Turner, and a course of 10 lectures by Mr. Gerard Collier. A very successful concert was organised. The London University has granted a Tutorial Class next session.—Southwark (South London).

The Oxford University Tutorial Class has finished its second year and has maintained its level. The Local Education Authority provided University Extension Lectures and a very comprehensive system of classes. Lectures were organised on "The Report of the Poor Law Commission" and on "Women in Turkey." Excellent rambles are being held every Saturday afternoon during the summer, and a number of students will attend the Oxford classes.—Swindon.

A number of rambles were organised. A Cambridge University Tutorial class led by Mr. Wyatt has been working throughout the winter. The Education Authority organised a class in English Literature. A course of Saturday evening lectures was also held.—Wellingtonborough.

Constitution of the Association.

I.—NAME.

The Association shall be known as THE WORKERS' EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION. It shall be definitely unsectarian and non-political.

II.—OBJECT.

Its object shall be to promote the Higher Education of Working Men and Women.

III.—METHODS.

It shall, in its capacity as a co-ordinating Federation of Working-class and Educational interests, endeavour to fulfil its object in the following principal ways:

- (a) By arousing the interest of the Workers in Higher Education, and by directing their attention to the facilities already existing.
- (b) By enquiring into the needs and feelings of the Workers in regard to Education, and by representing them to the Board of Education, Universities, Local Education Authorities, and Educational Institutions.
- (c) By providing, either in conjunction with the aforementioned bodies or otherwise, facilities for studies of interest to the Workers which may have been hitherto overlooked.
- (d) By Publishing, or arranging for the publication of such reports, pamphlets, books, and magazines as it deems necessary.

IV.—CONSTITUTION.

The Association shall consist of—

- (a) The Central Authority.
- (b) District Authorities.
- (c) Local Branches.
- (a) The CENTRAL AUTHORITY shall operate nationally, and shall assist the District Authorities and Local Branches in all possible ways. It shall consist of District Authorities, affiliated bodies, and individual members.

Membership.—National movements, institutions, societies, and unions may become affiliated on payment of a minimum annual subscription of one guinea. Individuals may become members on payment of a minimum annual subscription of two-and-sixpence.

Management.—The management shall be vested in a Central Council, which shall consist of the officers, two representatives of each District Authority, and one representative of each affiliated body, with power to co-opt ten members of the Association.

The Council shall meet at least twice in each year, in such centres as shall from time to time be determined. It shall appoint such committees as it finds necessary.

Officers.—The officers shall consist of a President, Treasurer, and Secretary. The President and Treasurer to be elected annually by the Annual General Meeting. The Secretary shall be appointed by the Central Council.

Annual General Meeting.—The Annual General Meeting shall be held on the 3rd Saturday in October of each year, in such centres as may from time to time be determined. To it shall be presented the statement of accounts (including the balance sheet of the District Authorities), and the annual report (including the reports of the District Authorities). Such statement of accounts and annual report shall be issued not later than the third Saturday in July. Notices of motion and nominations for President and Treasurer must be sent to the General Secretary not less than 28 days before the Annual General Meeting. The General Secretary shall issue the same to the District Authorities, Branches, Affiliated Societies, and members not later than 21 days before the Annual General Meeting.

To the Annual General Meeting shall be summoned :—

- (a) All the members of the Central Council, who shall have no power to vote unless the same be delegated to them by their respective authorities or societies.
  - (b) Two representatives from each District Authority, who shall have power to cast one vote for each individual member of, and thirty votes for each body affiliated by, the District.
  - (c) Two representatives from each Local Branch, who shall have power to cast one vote for each individual member of, and twenty votes for each body affiliated by, the Local Branch.
  - (d) One Representative for each body affiliated by the Central Authority, who shall have power to cast forty votes.
  - (e) All the individual members of the Central Authority, who shall each have power to cast one vote.
  - (f) All voting shall be by show of hands unless a card vote is demanded.
- (b) DISTRICT AUTHORITIES.—District Authorities shall be federations of District bodies and individual members. They shall operate over their respective areas, which shall be determined hereafter by the Central Council in consultation with the Local Branches and the existing District Authorities. Their constitutions shall be approved by the Central Council. Subject to the provisions elsewhere in this constitution, they shall be autonomous.
- (1) They shall pay to the Central Authority an annual contribution equivalent to two shillings in every pound of the total subscriptions received from individual members, affiliated bodies, and local branches.
  - (2) They shall submit an annual report and balance sheet to the Central Council not later than the second Saturday in July of each year for inclusion in the report of the whole Association.
  - (3) They shall appoint two of their members to serve upon the Central Council.
  - (4) They shall affiliate societies, institutions, and movements on payment of a minimum annual subscription of one guinea, and admit individuals as members on payment of a minimum annual subscription of two-and-sixpence.
  - (5) They shall admit to their Council, constituted on lines identical with those of the Central Authority, a representative or representatives of each local branch, and the President and Secretary (ex-officio) of the Central Authority.
- (c) LOCAL BRANCHES.—Local Branches shall operate over areas determined in consultation with the Council of District Authority. They shall be autonomous federations of individuals and local bodies with constitutions approved by the Council of the District Authority. They shall pay to the District Authority an annual subscription of one penny on every shilling of the total subscriptions of individual members and affiliated societies. They shall each be entitled to send one or more representatives to the District Council.

V.—ALTERATION OF CONSTITUTION.

No alteration of Constitution can be made except in the Annual General Meeting. Notice of any proposed alteration must be sent to the Secretary not later than the first Saturday in July of each year, so that it may be issued with the annual report for the time being.

The Sixth Annual Meeting,

October 15th and 16th, 1909.

NATIONAL DEMONSTRATION.

The Demonstration was held on Friday, October 15th, at the Victoria Hall. The Lord Mayor of Sheffield presided.

The Archbishop of York proposed :—

“ That this National Demonstration, representing Labour and Education, expresses its confidence in the unsectarian, non-party, democratic activity of the W.E.A. in attempting alike to stimulate and to satisfy the demands among working men and working women for education ; and affirms its belief that in the continuance of such activity lies one of the chief hopes for the development of a national system of education ensuring to every child, adolescent and adult, that education which is essential for the complete development of their individual and corporate capacities.”

The resolution was seconded by—

Mr. D. J. Shackleton, M.P.

And supported by—

Mr. A. Henderson, M.P., and Miss Margaret McMillan.

It was carried unanimously with enthusiasm.

Professor Sadler addressed the meeting. The attendance was 3,000. An overflow meeting was held in the adjoining chapel attended by 600 people. Numbers were turned away.

The additional speakers were :—

Mr. J. Pointer, M.P.

Mr. C. W. Bowerman, M.P.

The Pro-Chancellor of the University of Sheffield.

Miss J. P. Madams.

The General Secretary.

OFFICIAL SESSION.

PRESENT.—There were present 220 delegates, including those from—
 40 Branches and
 72 Affiliated Societies.

The General Secretary temporarily occupied the chair.

FIFTH ANNUAL MEETING.—The Minutes of the Fifth Annual Meeting were read and approved.

PRESIDENT.—The re-election of Wm. Temple as President was confirmed with acclamation. He proceeded to the chair.

TREASURER.—The re-election of Mr. T. Edmund Harvey as Treasurer was confirmed also with acclamation.

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS.—Mr. Temple delivered his Presidential Address. He was thanked on the motion of Mr. W. A. Nicholls (N.U.T.), and seconded by Mr. C. W. Bowerman, M.P. (London Society of Compositors). It was instructed that the Presidential Address be published in pamphlet form.

FRATERNAL GREETINGS.—It was instructed that telegrams of greeting be sent to the Annual Meeting of the National Home Reading Union, and to the Conference being held for the formation of a Scottish W.E.A.; also to Dr. Paton, of Nottingham, who was described as a great worker for the cause of education.

ADOPTION OF REPORT AND BALANCE SHEET.—The Report and Balance Sheet were adopted unanimously after a lengthy discussion in which a large number of representatives took part. It dealt with Universities, University Colleges, Finance, Free Libraries, the Education of Railway Men, the Distribution of Reports, the Education of Working Women, The Highway, Co-operative Education, and the University Summer Meetings.

MEMORANDUM ON AID FROM THE BOARD OF EDUCATION AND LOCAL EDUCATION AUTHORITIES.—It was instructed that a Memorandum be prepared on aid from the Board of Education and Local Education Authorities.

At 12.30 p.m., the Meeting adjourned for lunch.

PRINTING DEPARTMENT.—It was suggested that the Council should consider the advisability of doing its own printing and publishing.

AUDITOR.—Mr. T. B. Butterworth, F.F.A., was re-appointed auditor. It was resolved to convey the thanks of the Association to him for his great services.

RESOLUTIONS.—(1) "That this Annual Meeting expresses its high appreciation of the work done in the Tutorial Classes."—Swindon Branch. Carried unanimously.

(2) "That this Annual Meeting desires to express its satisfaction at the non-party, unsectarian and democratic constitution of the Association; and is of the opinion that in the maintenance of the integrity of such constitution the best hope for the development of education among the workers exists."—Swindon Branch. Carried unanimously.

(3) "That this Annual Meeting, in view of the fact that the University Extension Summer Meeting of 1910 will be held at York, instructs the Council to consider the advisability of arranging a Summer School at either Oxford or Cambridge, sued to the needs of workpeople, and that they confer with the authorities concerned for this purpose."—South London Branch. Carried unanimously.

(4) "That this Association welcomes the efforts of the Board of Education, as shown in Circular 709, to reduce the size of classes, and trusts that these efforts will be continued, until no class in a Public Elementary School shall have more than 30 Children on the roll."—Midland District Council. Carried with one dissentient.

(5) "That this Meeting recommends each Branch of the Association to urge its Local Council and Education Committee to adopt Bye-Laws under the Employment of Children Act, 1903, unless such Bye-laws are already in force."—Ilford Branch. Carried unanimously.

(6) "That any period of Education which stops short of sixteen years of age is inadequate for the proper educational development of the child."—Manchester Branch. Carried with one dissentient.

NEXT MEETING.—An invitation from the Reading Branch was given with an assurance of hearty welcome. It was accepted with enthusiasm.

THANKS.—It was resolved with acclamation to thank Sheffield University, Sheffield Branch, and the Secretary (Mr. Partridge).

At 4 p.m. the delegates were received and entertained to tea by the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Sheffield and members of the staff. At the conclusion the buildings were inspected.

ANNUAL REPORT

and Statement of Accounts,
—JULY 1st, 1913—

The Association co-ordinates existing agencies and devises fresh means by which working people of all degrees may be raised educationally, step by step, until they are able to take advantage of the facilities which are and which may be provided by the universities. It is a missionary organisation working in co-operation with education authorities and working-class organisations. It is definitely unsectarian, non-political, and democratic. It is a Federation consisting at present of 2,164 organisations, including 781 Trade Unions, Trades Councils and Branches, 326 Co-operative Committees, 284 Adult Schools and Classes, 20 University bodies, 15 Local Education Authorities, 163 Working Men's Clubs and Institutes, 61 Teachers' Associations, and Educational and Literary societies and 434 various societies, mainly of work-people. It seeks to fulfil its objects in the following principal ways (A) By arousing the interest of the workers in Higher Education, and by directing their attention to the facilities already existing; (B) by enquiring into the needs and feelings of the workers with regard to Education, and by representing them to the Board of Education, Universities, Local Education Authorities, and Educational Institutions; (C) by providing, either in conjunction with the aforementioned bodies or otherwise, facilities for studies of interest to the workers which may have been hitherto overlooked; (D) by publishing, or arranging for the publication, of such reports, pamphlets, books, and magazines as it deems necessary.

GENERAL REPORT

OF THE COUNCIL.

T will be within the recollection of our members that in our last year's report we promised that the tenth annual report should "provide a history of the movement since its inception in 1903." The Workers' Educational Association has touched English educational and social movements at so many points, and has crowded such a varied experience into its short existence that to write a history of it would demand far more space than is at our disposal. All that we have attempted in the few pages which follow our account of the work of the year 1912-13 is to trace some of those strands in its development (see pages 20-25), an understanding of which seems most indispensable to a proper appreciation of the work that lies before it.

The past twelve months have not seen any sensational developments, but the work of the Association has grown steadily on the lines laid down by its previous experience. Every year brings additional proof that education offers a platform wide enough to unite men and women of the most varied parties and creeds, and confirms us in our faith that behind that sectional difference there is a steadily growing body of goodwill which it is the task of the Association to stimulate, express, and organise. Not only has the individual membership of the Association grown very largely, but our relations with other working-people's organisations, with trade unions, co-operative societies, the Working Men's Club and Institute Union, and adult schools, have been increasingly close and cordial: while educational bodies, from Local Authorities to Universities, show a growing appreciation of the value of the Association's work. Such growth in external influence is, however, unimportant compared with the maintenance in the Association itself of a spirit of comradeship and willingness to undertake arduous tasks in order to bring education within reach of a wider circle. Without that spirit it is indeed a danger. The most critical point in the life of any organisation is not when it is young and struggling, nor when it is attacked by opponents, but when it has overcome, or seems to have overcome, its initial difficulties, and is tempted to rest on the prestige of its past successes. More movements die of self-satisfaction than are killed by criticism. It needs no great foresight to realise that if the Association is faithfully to discharge its mission of securing complete equality of educational opportunity, it must be ready to face stormy passage in the future and to make sacrifices for the sake of its ideals. It will preserve its willingness to take the risks which are inseparable from the performance of its duty only if it is cautious in accepting the praises of those who speak well of it, refuses to limit its horizon to the tiny circle of its past achievements, and is ever eagerly pressing forward to unsolved problems and unexplored seas. The immensity of the task before the Association would be oppressive if it were not itself the main incentive to effort. We look to the new members and students who year by year come for the first time under the influence of the Association to keep its spirit fresh. They will help it most by pointing the way to new experiments and adventures.

THE GROWTH AND WORK OF THE ASSOCIATION.

The past year has seen a wonderful growth in the number of branches belonging to the Association, in the number of societies affiliated to it and in the individual membership. The number of new branches established is, indeed, greater than in any previous year in the history of the Association, as the following statistics will show :—

	1906	1909	1910	1911	1912	1913
Branches .....	13	54	71	86	110	158
Affiliated Societies .....	283	1,124	1,389	1,541	1,879	2,164
Individual members (in their own right) ...	2,612	5,485	5,801	5,345	7,011	8,723

It will be understood that the individual membership by no means represents the number of individuals who come under the influence of the Association. One great cause of our financial difficulties lies in the fact that a large number of persons are brought into touch with the Association through the societies to which they belong, but do not themselves become members of it. In this matter there is the greatest difference between branches. Birmingham, for example, has 1,010 individual members, while Manchester has 176; such differences probably correspond to real differences of local conditions, which require divergent types of organisation, and, in so far as this is so, they are to be welcomed. On the other hand, it is much to be desired that branches should enrol as many individual members as possible, as this both spreads the influence of the Association and strengthens its financial position. The example set by certain branches, which have introduced a printed membership card, is one which might be more generally followed. In particular we would urge that every branch secretary should make an effort to enrol as members all students attending tutorial classes in his area. Twenty minutes or half an hour might well be given up twice in the course of the session to explaining to them the work of the Association. It would a matter for deep regret if the tutorial classes were not to be in the future what they have been in the past, a recruiting ground from which missionaries who will spread the ideals of the Association are drawn.

The past year has seen the development of our work in Wales and Ireland, and an extension of it to Scotland. There are now strong branches of the Association in Aberdeen, Edinburgh, and Govan, and arrangements have been made to start classes in the two former places. We are glad to notice that both the local labour organisations and several members of the University staffs have thrown themselves into the work with enthusiasm. The response from the co-operative movement in Scotland in particular has been very encouraging. In Australia both the Universities and the State Governments have been making inquiries as to our work, and we are confident that a great impetus will be given to the movement there by the visit which is being paid to Australia by our General Secretary. In Sydney definite steps have been taken to form an Association on our lines.

While the demand for the establishment of new branches is a welcome proof of the increasing interest roused by the work of the Association, it is even more essential that existing branches should consolidate and develop their activities than it is that the number of branches should be increased. The Association ought to aim at laying such secure foundations in every district where it begins its work, that if the central organisation were swept away to-morrow the educational function of the branches would continue unimpaired. At the present moment their activities are so diverse that it is impossible to do even approximate justice to them in a few lines. One noticeable development has been the organisation of reading circles and lectures in connection with affiliated societies. The lectures, study circles, and classes thus organised may be numbered in thousands; indeed, one branch alone has arranged over 1,000 lectures (chiefly in courses of from three to six) for the adult schools, trade unions, co-operative guilds, etc., in its district. Most branches, for example, offer to supply lecturers to classes organised by trades councils, or by churches and chapels, or by literary and debating societies. Much of the work done in the study circles and classes has been of a high educational standard, but the lectures have been for the most part of a pioneer character, and designed to arouse educational interest in bodies of men and women brought together by their interest in other movements. The lectures have been on all kinds of literary, historical, social and scientific subjects, and the audiences have varied from 20 to 150.

It is specially satisfactory to notice how many students who belong, or have belonged, to tutorial classes, are now engaged in teaching other groups of students. It has always been the aim of the tutorial classes that their influence should not be confined to those who are themselves able to attend them, but should be diffused in a circle widening as they continue and an increasing number of men and women pass through them. There are a considerable number of places where this ideal has taken the practical shape of classes taught by tutorial class students. Such work is laborious for the teachers, who give part of their scanty leisure to it. But it is of the very essence of the spirit of the Association that it should be undertaken, and it has untold possibilities. It brings education to those who often have had no other chance of obtaining it. "Why didn't they teach us that at school? I have wondered about it for years"; a miner was heard to say to a friend as he left a class in Constitutional History, conducted by a tutorial class student. Equally important is the fact that it leads education authorities to make efforts to provide increased facilities for teaching of a kind for which in the past, and with some excuse, they have sometimes been inclined to think there was little desire.

The actual organising of lectures and classes is only one side of the Association's work. It aims not merely at stimulating the intellect, but at arousing social sympathies. Its rambles and visits to places of historical or scientific interest, afternoons spent in Museums and Picture Galleries, are not undertaken merely because they are "educational," but because it is natural for the members of any society to take their pleasure together. But they keep alive the spirit which alone gives value to the more formal work done in classrooms, for people learn most when they are least conscious of learning. An increasing number of branches have followed the example set by Swindon of holding a "Saint's Day" on which to commemorate local worthies. Yorkshire branches have visited the home of the Brontës, and Huddersfield has organised an "Oastler Day," in which every section of the community took part. Such celebrations develop local patriotism and give dignity to life by emphasising achievements which have become part of us all.

In our last annual report we pointed out that "one of the most important functions of our branches is to act as trustees of the interests of the children of the workers in the matter of education." It is satisfactory to notice that in the past twelve months increasing attention has been paid to this aspect of their work. Several of them have taken up such questions as the provision of school clinics, and free places in secondary schools. Conferences have also been held, for example, at Manchester, which have been attended by numerous representatives of working class and educational organisations, and at which questions connected with elementary, secondary, and continued education have been discussed. Such work cannot fail to stimulate opinion in the direction of educational reform, and should be undertaken wherever possible. The Association stands for securing the fullest educational opportunities not only to adults, but to children.

RURAL EDUCATION.

The work in country districts has made further headway. Six new village branches have been formed since last year, while steady progress has been maintained in the nine already established. Branches with excellent possibilities have also been started in two small country towns—namely, Petersfield and Chipping Norton.

At Claverdon a class studying various aspects of natural science, more particularly in its relation to agriculture, started with 21 students and ended with 41. The majority of these were workers on the land, and included farmers, small holders, and labourers. This class again earned a £10 grant from the Warwickshire County Council.

Peppard (Oxon.) also is interested in natural science, and its members have continued their study of botany, a second class having been started especially for young people. A series of lantern lectures has also been given, and the Parish Hall has proved too small to hold all who wished to attend.

Woodborough (Wilts) and Ascott-under-Wychwood (Oxon.), pursuing history, and Rodbourne Cheney (Wilts), literature, have remained faithful to the subjects chosen by them for the previous year. Woodborough has, in addition, arranged various lectures and readings, while at Ascott a school clinic is being run under W.E.A. auspices, and is proving a real godsend to people who had previously to take their children many miles for medical or dental treatment. Much valuable health teaching is also being given to both mothers and children in connection with the clinic.

Wroughton (Wilts) has had a course on "The Story of Piers Plowman."

The South Gloucestershire Federation, and Chiseldon, Nursteed, and Winterbourne Bassett (the latest addition to the Wiltshire village branches, which now number six) have had miscellaneous lectures, and the latter, through kind help given by Swindon, has also had a choral class.

Llantwit Major, besides the Economics class, has had lantern lectures on scientific subjects.

Tysoe—a new Warwickshire branch—has made an excellent start with a class in history. Of 24 people who joined it, 11 never missed, while 5 only missed once, and this in spite of the fact that it was wet every evening but two. There was one particularly interesting evening when changes in village life and various agricultural questions were considered, many members being ready with valuable information about the life of the neighbourhood in the past.

Shipham—a village in the Mendips—has had a course on "Health in the Home," which has drawn an average attendance of 24.

Yarnton—another new branch in Oxfordshire—has enrolled 34 members, and has had six very successful lectures on various subjects.

At Midhurst (Sussex) a class in Industrial History and Local Government has received a £9 grant. The work there is full of promise, and it is hoped before long to form a branch for this neighbourhood. A number of lectures have also been given at Heyshott, in Sussex, and there has been weekly training in music.

At Fleckney (Leicestershire), where a branch is in process of formation, an Economics class has been held in connection with an adult school, and has done good work.

The Buxton Memorial scheme has begun to take definite shape, and a series of six lectures on social and historical subjects have been given at Horsted Keynes (Sussex) in connection with it.

Buxton Cottage is proving a real blessing as a week-end centre and meeting place. A member of the Association is residing there, and making it the headquarters for the rural work of the Association in the district.

A feature of this year's rural work has been the relations established by the Association with the Agricultural Organisation Society. It is hoped that a plan of joint action may be evolved next year, for it is clear that the educationalist and the co-operator must labour hand in hand, opening men's eyes to the vision of a changed countryside, and working together to make the realisation of it possible.

Meanwhile, it can truthfully be said that wherever the Association has been at work there has been a distinct spread of the spirit of co-operation, a desire on the part of village students to penetrate further into the new worlds of thought that have been opened to them, and a real brightening of village life.

WORK AMONGST WOMEN.

Enthusiasm for education continues to spread among women. Twelve branches have now special women secretaries or committees, and experience is proving how much these can do to strengthen, not only the women's side of the work, but also general branch activities.

While working in close connection with the branch as a whole, they are able to pay attention to the special needs of women in regard to subject and time, and can also do valuable missionary work. The achievement of the Reading women's section in adding 100 new members during the past year is a striking example of this, while the part played by the Birmingham women's committee, in conducting a systematic canvass of employees in the chief shops, opens up a new field of propaganda. A similar campaign has also been set on foot by the London women's committee. Many women's committees, moreover, as in the case of Ilford and Rochdale, are drawing in additional members by the arrangement of afternoon meetings, at which talks on educational topics are followed by tea and discussion.

Thirty-seven classes for women have been carried on during the winter, the subjects having included Literature, History, Citizenship, Nature Study, Art, Hygiene, and Embroidery. Classes at Birkenhead, Rochdale, and Staines have been making a special study of "The Home": its evolution from early times and the changes that it has undergone with changing industrial conditions have been traced; the ways in which housework used to be done have been compared with modern methods, and much discussion has been evoked as to what the ideal home would be like, and how arranged most conveniently, healthily, and artistically.

Manchester has held a Shakespeare class, which was attended by 25 women, and ended in a very happy way by a visit to "Romeo and Juliet." At Ilford a class studying "London Past and Present" has been most successful, and has been accompanied by visits to historic buildings. The Battersea women's committee has shown untiring energy; besides running a class on 19th Century Novelists, it arranged a Christmas Party for the children of branch members, and got up a concert to pay the expenses. The Huddersfield women's section has also worked gallantly since its formation at the beginning of the session, and two women's study circles started in the winter, as well as a reading and writing class for those who had never learned to do either, are to run throughout the summer, by special request. The Blyth women's section (also formed last winter) arranged a course on "Health in the Home," which drew an average attendance of 65 women. Many branches have been active in providing lectures for women in their own organisations. Thus 18 short courses, exclusive of several regular classes, have been given in the London District to women's adult schools, co-operative guilds, etc., while the Bristol branch has arranged 22 courses and 107 single talks, and even then has not been able to meet completely the demands made on it. The Leeds Branch, too, has drawn up a scheme for women's study circles, in connection with which 24 short courses and 18 single talks have been given. Wakefield has made a move in a similar direction.

Work in girls' clubs has taken a distinct step forward. There have been four classes continuing over a period of at least six months in London clubs, and short series of talks in three others. In Bristol eight courses and many single talks have been provided, and Birmingham has undertaken similar work.

The proportion of women in tutorial classes has risen to 15 per cent. At Chorley a class studying psychology has consisted mainly of women and is particularly interesting as having grown up out of last year's Child Study class.

Twenty-nine women attended the Oxford Summer School, and a large number of these received scholarships from the University Women's Fund, which also assisted women in tutorial classes with the loan of some 400 books during the past session.

The Women's Advisory Committee has met nine times to watch over the women's work, and in April it arranged a fourth meeting of the Round Table Conference on the education of working women. On the London County Council producing a scheme for the establishment of a number of special institutes for women, the Women's Advisory Committee, in conjunction with the London Women's Committee, met to consider how these might help forward the cause of higher education for women.

In the villages women have proved particularly regular in their attendance at classes, and in many instances have been ready to tramp two or three miles along dark and muddy roads in order to be present. It is hoped, as the country work strengthens, to start special afternoon classes for married women who cannot leave their homes in the evening.

FINANCE.

We are glad to report an increased expenditure over that of last year, inasmuch as it connotes that increasing activity on which the vitality of the Association depends. At the same time it places on it a financial strain, with which, in spite of all our efforts, we have been unable to cope. The result is that our expenditure during the 12 months exceeded our income by £366 17s. 1d., and we have been compelled to draw on our reserves to meet our liabilities. This points to the fact that, in some respects, we have reached a critical period in our career, and shall in the future have to discover new, and, if possible, more widespread sources of revenue in order to fulfil our mission. The nature of our work demands financial outlay before we can look for results, and, as our line of front yearly enlarges, the pressure to find the wherewithal to advance is ever with us. It is likely to bear on us still further in the future, not only for the reasons given, but also on account of the expansion of our work in the rural districts, a costlier sphere of labour than the towns.

We much regret that owing to the exceptional expenditure necessitated during the current year, it has been found impossible to work without drawing on the Central Office Endowment Fund, and it has so been found impossible to proceed further with this scheme, though we hope at a later date to do so.

We are glad to record the continuance of the generous help given in previous years by the Co-operative Wholesale Society, the Co-operative Union, Ltd., the Working Men's Club and Institute Union, and the Methodist Trustees. We particularly welcome donations from the Mercers and Drapers' Companies, and are hopeful of interesting more companies in our educational work. Several trade unions have doubled their subscriptions this year, which is a source of great encouragement to us.

In our efforts to raise the means to supply the widening demand, the fact that our work has a dual incidence, both national and local, must not be overlooked. It behoves us, therefore, to see that efforts made to meet the one need are so conceived as to aid and not embarrass those that aim at supplying the other. The creation of each new district with its own individual organisation and funds, cannot fail to divert monies from the central to the local coffers, and though we hope and believe that the change will add to the general well-being and strengthen mutual finance, this can only be achieved by a frank recognition of the mutual interdependence of the Central Office and the districts. Further, the day of broadcast appeals is over ; in the future we shall have to depend more and more on the personal element to increase our revenues. In this connection we are glad to record the success that has attended the appeals made at the instance of our members, particularly where members have added their personal influence. We continue to ask for this co-operation.

Another and very important piece of work in which many individual members can assist is the effort to convert all tutorial class students into W.E.A. members. This has more than a financial bearing. Where these students have not become imbued with the spirit of our Association, we desire to pass on to others the benefits which they themselves have received, and by giving to receive more liberally themselves, something is amiss, and the spirit of our work has not come to its own.

Special efforts, with varying success—and the immediate success in such cases is sometimes the smallest that accrues—have been made to press our claims on the Trade Unions, the Co-operative Societies, the Working Men's Clubs, the Adult Schools, and the City Companies. We urge such of our members as have influence in any of these quarters to use that influence in our favour constantly and fully, especially in the matter of adequate donations from wealthy Trade Union organisations.

While the need for higher education is not confined to working men and women, the operation of our Association is, and, though we welcome and accept in the spirit in which it is given the help of those who, loving the cause, yet cannot be numbered under this head, the Association looks forward to the time when it will be not only controlled but entirely supported by those for whom it exists.

A general appeal on behalf of the Association was made in the leading papers throughout the country, supported in many cases by personal letters, and met with a response of over £100.

The absence of the General Secretary and his wife from England has involved increased expenditure, and a special fund (the donors of which wish to remain anonymous) has been opened to provide for the extra liabilities that have had to be incurred. The generosity it has evoked is not the least tribute that has been paid to Mr. and Mrs. Mansbridge.

The Library Fund stands in need of help; donations, either in money or books, are asked for. We also commend to the attention of our members and friends the Comradeship Fund, in whose welfare Mr. Mansbridge is so personally interested. That this fund, so intimate and vital to the spirit of our Association, does not suffer during his absence, is a debt we owe to our respect for her. We are pleased to say that during Mrs. Mansbridge's absence the Comradeship Fund will be in the hands of Miss Eardley-Wilmot, who will be pleased to receive contributions, which may be sent to her, care of the Central Office.

THE RELATION OF THE ASSOCIATION TO THE UNIVERSITIES.

During the past year three new Joint Committees have been established at Bristol, Cambridge, and Nottingham. There are, therefore, at the present time, Joint Committees composed of equal numbers of University representatives and workpeople at ten Universities and University Colleges, viz., Birmingham, Bristol, Cambridge, Cardiff, Durham, Liverpool, London, Manchester, Nottingham, and Oxford. In addition to these there are committees at Leeds, Sheffield, and Reading upon which, though they depart somewhat from the constitution of the ordinary Joint Committee, the Association has representation. All Universities and University Colleges of England and Wales are represented on the Central Joint Advisory Committee, which continues to act as an organ for the discussion of common problems and for the maintenance of as much uniformity of method as is desirable. It seems clear that both this Central Committee and the principle of Joint Committees, which is the equal representation of educational interests and of workpeople in the control of the classes, have proved of the utmost value, and are destined to become a permanent factor in English education.

TUTORIAL CLASSES.

The progress of tutorial classes is shown in the following statistics :

	1907-8	1908-9	1909-10	1910-11	1911-12	1912-13
Joint Committees and Committees on which the Association is represented .....	—	1	4	8	8	13
Labour Representation on Committees .....	—	7	27	58	61	86
Classes .....	2	8	39	72	101	117
Students .....	60	237	1,170	1,829	2,780	3,158

It will be seen that in the last twelve months there has not been such a large increase in the number of tutorial classes as was shown in the last annual report. This is to be explained, not by any slackening in the demand for them, but by the financial strain already felt by some Universities. In view of the importance of the movement, any check to the development would be deplorable, and it must be a matter for consideration in the future whether means cannot be found to remove or diminish existing financial difficulties. The Association will work to bring tutorial classes within reach of all who desire them.

A feature in the work of the classes which calls for special comment is the great and increasing variety of subjects studied in them. The suggestion which was at one time put forward that the tutorial classes should confine themselves too generally to Industrial History and Economics has quite lost its force. Though these subjects still predominate in the first three years of study, there are successful classes in many others—Literature, Political Science, General History, Biology, Zoology, Psychology, and Philosophy. This is a welcome proof of the vitality of the movement. It desires to be as catholic in its intellectual outlook as it already is in its membership.

University tutorial classes, though usually organised by the Association, are, of course, controlled by University Joint Committees. The cost of these classes is met by the Universities, by Board of Education grants, by grants from Local Education Authorities, and by grants from the Gilchrist Trust, while some small part of it is obtained from local sources and from the funds of the Workers' Educational Association itself. The salaries paid for the conduct of these classes, of which experience proves that few tutors can take more than four in one week and keep themselves abreast of their subject, have varied from £40 to £50 per session. It will be remembered that the Oxford report recommended £80 per session. The total amount paid to tutors of classes would probably be something like £5,600 per session. In some few cases the salary has been less than £40 per class per session.

SUMMER SCHOOLS.

The Summer Schools held during 1912 were uniformly successful. Two hundred and fifteen students attended the School at Oxford (which lasted eight weeks), and, of these, 1 stayed six weeks, 2 five weeks, 11 four weeks, 6 three weeks, 65 two weeks, and 130 for one week.

A residential School was also held at Reading for two weeks, and 40 students attended.

Week-end Schools were held at Birmingham, Durham, Halifax, Leeds, Liverpool, London, and Manchester, and were attended by over 1,100 students.

The summer of 1913 will see a further development of the scheme of Summer Schools. Oxford has decided to admit only third year students from other than its own classes, and other Universities have been stimulated to organise Summer Schools. Thus, the Universities of Liverpool and Manchester, and the University College of North Wales will hold a six weeks' School at Bangor. There is also to be a two week School at Durham.

A two weeks' Summer School will be held at Cambridge for the study of Economic Theory. This indicates the way in which Universities may co-operate with each other by each specialising in certain specific subjects.

Week-end Schools are being held by the Universities of Leeds, Liverpool, and London, and have been undertaken locally by the Croydon tutorial class and the Halifax branch of the Association.

THE ROYAL COMMISSION ON UNIVERSITY EDUCATION IN LONDON.

One of the most important educational events of the last twelve months has been the publication of the Report of the Royal Commission on University Education in London. The unqualified approval which it gives to the work of the Association, and the suggestion which it makes for equipping the tutorial classes in London with a permanent centre, are so significant as to be worth quoting at some length :—

“There is, however, one class of adult student for whom the University should, in our opinion, make further provision than that just indicated, though they will also, no doubt, benefit by some of the evening courses given in the day colleges. We refer to the large and increasing body of workers whose needs and desires have found expression through the Workers' Educational Association. We have been greatly impressed by the remarkable progress already made by that Association under the inspiring guidance of its General Secretary, in arranging classes of a university standard for working men and women. We are even more impressed by the true spirit of learning, the earnest desire for knowledge, and the tenacity of purpose which have been shown by the students. These men and women desire knowledge, not diplomas or degrees, and we think that no University, and above all no city University, could justify its existence that did not do its utmost to help and encourage work of this kind. . . .

"We think, therefore, that the University of London should be so organised and endowed as to enable it to establish and maintain a special centre to be identified with the work done in conjunction with the Workers' Educational Association, and to serve the social as well as the intellectual needs of its students.

"There is, however, another side of the extension work of the University which is more uniformly maintained at a high level. The University Board for the Extension of University Teaching is assisted in the selection of teachers for classes organised in connection with the Workers' Educational Association, and in deciding the subjects upon which lectures should be given to these classes, by a joint committee of fourteen persons, seven of whom are appointed by the University, and even by the Workers' Educational Association and other labour organisations. The classes here referred to are limited to a maximum of thirty students, are tutorial in their nature, and not ordinary Extension lectures. The students pledge themselves to regular attendance so far as the conditions of their employment permit, and undertake to be regular in writing essays bearing upon the subject of the course. These classes open out a new and hopeful field for the spread of a pure love of learning—the main function of a University. . . .

"We think the University should consider the work it is doing for these men and women one of the most serious and important of its services to the metropolis, and that it ought to provide a well-equipped building in a convenient situation as the visible centre of the movement, where courses of lectures could be given by the best teachers, including from time to time, lectures and addresses by the professors of the University; where debates could be held, and the students meet for social intercourse. The University already possesses in the Goldsmiths' College a building admirably suited for the purpose, and situated close to the homes of many thousands of the students it should attract. This building should be used in the evenings, on Saturday afternoons, and on Sundays, as the chief university centre for tutorial class students, and a residence should be provided within its walls, if possible, for a warden who would be responsible for the organisation of its work and social life."

THE RELATION OF THE ASSOCIATION TO—

(a) THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.—Apart from the grants which classes organised through the Association and its branches continue to earn from the Board, and which in the year 1911-12 amounted to £1,872, there have been two new developments of some importance in the relation of the Association to the Board of Education. The first is the appointment of Mr. A. E. Zimmern and Mr. J. Dover Wilson as inspectors of tutorial classes under the board. Mr. Zimmern and Mr. Wilson are thoroughly conversant with the methods and ideals of the Association, and much benefit is being, and will be, derived from their advice and criticism. The second is the new regulations of the Board which have now been issued, and which substitute a block grant for grants calculated strictly according to attendance. This change will facilitate the organisation of smaller classes, and will, it is anticipated, increase their efficiency.

(b) LOCAL EDUCATION AUTHORITIES.—The Association continues to work harmoniously with local education authorities which show an increasing appreciation of its value, and some of which on occasion, have even urged the establishment of branches before. In the opinion of the officers of the Association, the time was ripe for this. The grants made in aid of the Association's work by local education authorities amounted in the year 1912-13 to about £1,650. As one, though only one, example of the influence which the Association has exercised in directing the attention of local education authorities to the growing demand which undoubtedly exists for education of a non-utilitarian character, mention may be made of the scheme recently adopted by the London County Council for the recognition of its evening school work, under which twelve "Institutes" are to be established in different parts of London for conducting classes in "Non-vocational subjects." Special reference is made in the memorandum explaining the scheme to the work of the Association, and a hope is expressed that the evening schools of the Council may be conducted on lines somewhat similar to those which it had followed.

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING RESOLUTIONS.

The resolutions before the Ninth Annual Meeting, 1912, are recorded elsewhere in the minutes of the meeting. Those referred to the Council have been dealt with as follows:—

With regard to Resolution 1, in the name of the United Kingdom Postal Clerks' Association, the matters raised therein were considered by the Council, and a conference was arranged and took place at Chester on May 14th, at which were present representatives from the following Postal organisations :—United Kingdom Postal Clerks' Association, the Postmen's Federation, and the Postal Telegraph Clerks' Association. Mr. W. A. Nicholls and Mr. Price attended on behalf of the Council. No decision was reached, however, and no recommendations were made at this meeting.

Resolutions 2 and 3 have been circulated to the branches with a view to collecting information.

Resolution 5.—It has been decided to arrange for conferences between educationalists, employers, and workers' organisations, and steps will be taken as soon as possible to bring these about.

Resolution 6 was left in the hands of the General Secretary, and the matter referred to therein has been brought to a satisfactory conclusion.

Resolution 7 (1912).—Arising out of this resolution, a memorandum urging the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into English University Education, with special reference to the necessity of making it easily accessible to all classes, and to the endowments and other financial arrangements connected with it, has been sent to and acknowledged by the Prime Minister.

THE CENTRAL LIBRARY.

The Library, which is under the control of a Joint Committee of representatives of Toynbee Hall and of the Association, has completed its first year's work, and, under the able guidance of Mr. H. A. Fawcett, has done much towards meeting one of the greatest needs of the movement. Its aim is to provide books for any students who cannot obtain them otherwise ; to augment, but not to take the place of, those supplied by Universities and other bodies under whose auspices classes are held, and by public libraries.

Although almost without financial resources, it has succeeded in supplying some, in many cases all, of the books asked for by classes and individual students during the year. It has issued 209 volumes to 25 tutorial classes, 203 volumes to 23 preparatory and other classes, and 67 volumes to 17 individual students.

The warm thanks of the movement generally are due to the donors of 203 volumes which have been added during the year, and to the Hodgson Pratt Memorial, Limited, which has twice during the year made a gift of books to the value of £10.

If the Library is to fulfil its function, such assistance must be greatly increased, and it is hoped that donations of books and of money to buy books will be much more frequent during the coming year.

"THE HIGHWAY" AND OTHER PUBLICATIONS.

With the first number of Vol. V of the "Highway," the size was increased to 20 pages, and our printing orders to 10,000 copies per month.

While the circulation shows a steady increase over the whole year—reaching, in March, with the "Co-operative" number, a circulation of 9,750 copies—we are convinced that there is still a very large field for increase in the sales.

During the year four special issues have appeared, containing special articles dealing with the connection between the Association and the Trade Union, Co-operative, Adult School, and Club movements; and later on this year it is proposed to issue special numbers dealing with work in the rural districts and with women's work.

By utilising these special numbers for the purpose of local propaganda amongst the organisations dealt with, many branches have greatly benefited, and even if the results have not always been immediately apparent, much permanent good has been done by setting out the connection between the Association and the movements concerned.

While the circulation of the "Highway" amongst tutorial class students during the class session has been extremely encouraging, we feel it highly desirable that arrangements should be made as far as possible for its supply to students during the summer months. This would not only avoid a serious drop in the sales of the "Highway," but by securing the interests of the students, would also ensure the success of the classes at the opening of the new session. Help to class secretaries to secure this end will be given gladly by the Central or District offices.

A series of special articles dealing with national education commenced in the June number, and it is hoped that these will be of use in guiding branches and study circles to a fuller comprehension of our educational system generally. Letters from readers of the "Highway" lead us to believe that our magazine has fully maintained and even improved its position as an educational journal of the highest character, and we confidently appeal to our members to bring it before a wider circle of readers.

THE OFFICIALS AND THE STAFF.

The Association has, as always, a heavy debt of gratitude to acknowledge for the tireless work of its officials. The President, immersed though he is in other activities, has been unsparing of his time in the cause of the Association, and many branches look back on the inspiration which his addresses, and still more his presence, have brought them.

The absence of the General Secretary makes it possible for us to say in this report, what in past reports he has never said himself. Not only did he first conceive the idea of the Association, but it is no disparagement of the devoted work of his colleagues to say that to thousands of men and women he is the Association. Mr. Mansbridge's skill in organisation and his abounding fertility in resource have been the least of his gifts to the movement. He has brought to it a courage that makes all who meet him courageous, and hope which burns in him like a pillar of fire when in others it is dimmed by difficulties. We wish for him and Mrs. Mansbridge what they would wish for themselves, that they may find Australia a fruitful ground for education, and return strengthened for fresh labour in England.

We are glad to think that before Mr. Mansbridge left England he had time to complete a book giving an account of the tutorial class movement, which will be published in the Autumn by Messrs. Longmans, Green and Co. It is specially appropriate that the first history of the movement should be written by its founder.

Owing to his official duties, Mr. Zimmern has been obliged to resign the Treasurership of the Association. He has found a worthy successor in Mr. Bamford. The finances of the Association have never been in more capable hands, and members may rest assured that, though financial difficulties are still great, it will not be the fault of the Treasurer if they are not overcome.

Another change in the staff has been the departure of Mr. L. V. Gill. Mr. Gill gave several years of devoted work to the Association, both in the N. W. District and latterly as Assistant Secretary, and our members will wish him happiness and success in his new duties. As a consequence, additional duties have devolved upon Mr. E. W. Wimble, whose appointment in the latter part of 1912 greatly strengthened the Central Office. Mr. Wimble is also acting as Secretary to the newly formed South Eastern District.

The work of the Districts continues to increase. But the energies of our District Secretaries have more than kept pace with it. Mr. E. J. Hookway (North-Western), Mr. T. W. Price (Midland), Mr. J. W. Lee (North-Eastern), Mr. W. R. Straker (Western), and Mr. John Thomas (Wales), have made the Association an increasing power in their respective areas. Since July 1st, 1912, Mr. H. Goodman, we are glad to say, has been able to give his whole time to the organisation of the London branches now formed into the London District, and has made them some of the strongest in the movement. The Eastern District, recently formed, is in the charge of Mr. G. H. Pateman.

The Women's Department continues to develop under the charge of Miss Ida Hony, who has also done much for the rural work of the Association. She has taken over the work formerly done by Mrs. Davis (Miss Wall) to whose labours the Association owes much. Mrs. Davis continues to help the movement, and during Mr. Mansbridge's absence has taken his place as Honorary Secretary to the Central Joint Advisory Committee.

The untiring work of Miss Jones has greatly lightened the work of the General Secretary. He has left in her hands important work in connection with classes with the most complete confidence.

Mr. Wm. Lowth has joined the staff and his appointment will greatly assist the Central Office.

We thank the whole staff, paid and un-paid, for their self-sacrificing work. The Association need have no anxiety for the future when it has such a devoted body of helpers.

AFTER TEN YEARS.

It is with feelings both of humility and confidence that we bring to a close our tenth report. A capital source of the power of the Association has lain in the fact that it has hitherto refrained from making large claims than it could fulfil, and that, eschewing the advertisement of sensational programmes, it has been more ready to seek an explanation of its difficulties in its own imperfections than in the hostility of opponents or the apathy of allies. If at the end of its first decade we are asked to what goal its labours are leading we can only answer that we do not know. The career of the Association since it started has been a perpetual voyage of exploration. It has never been able to plan its work for more than a few months at a time or to say that this is one of its tasks and that is no more. Since it has been carried forward by currents of feeling and opinion which create, and are not created by, organisation and machinery, each new development has represented a real discovery of new educational possibilities on the part of its members, and its growth in the future will be limited only by their capacity to rise to the possibilities which are waiting to be revealed. In all things of the spirit there is a profound truth in the words "no man goes so far as he who does not know whither he is going." The members of the Association may lay that great saying to heart for uses of stimulus, warning and consolation.

But while the Association has never been careful to follow a pre-determined course, there is something to be learned from the steps in its development. Its educational work has comprised four main stages. It was founded in the conviction that if the demand for higher education among working people had hitherto been too little heard, the reason was not that it was non-existent, but that there was no organisation through which it could find adequate expression, and that until the workers viced their own wishes all schemes of higher education devised for them y academic authorities were predestined to barrenness. That the essence education was not a fine polish on life but a way of living, that in the ast there had been too much consideration of traditional methods and o little of the students' own point of view, that the workers must lucate their educators and write their own ideals on educational institutions, commonplaces like these have never, happily, been the property the Association to the exclusion of other bodies, but they found in it a ehicle of expression and determined its first task. Its mission was not to eate a system, but to add fuel to an already kindled spirit, and to draw toether those everywhere who cared for education, and to formulate a onception that should express the experience and ideals of working en and working women. In the first few years of its existence, there-re, the main work of the Association was the affiliation of societies, id the establishment of branches, where, in the warmth of personal tercourse, a common opinion could be created as to the need for gher education and as to the best means of supplying it. How diverse e membership, both of the Central Association and of the branches, as always been, can be seen by a glance at the list of affiliated societies ontained in this and previous reports. Such diversity has been the eatest element in its strength. It has cast a wide net, and left toler-on, commonsense, and the reconciling power of allegiance to a great eal to prevent differences of opinion from becoming anything except salutary spur to additional effort.

Its affiliated societies have given the Association breadth of vision, e sanity which comes from contact with everyday life, and a representative character which has saved it from becoming a clique of self-istified theorists chasing ideals round the circle of their own narrow experience. Its branches have been the seed plot where new ideas e generated and new experiments tried. Without the co-operation o both branches and affiliated societies the Association could not even ve attempted its second task, the establishment of tutorial classes, hich in the years immediately following 1908 occupied an increasing roportion of its energy. Thanks to their existence, it is no exaggeration o say that the tutorial classes established themselves. The best roof that the classes were a spontaneous growth is to be found the following facts:—That the plan of groups of students meeting egether for continuous study under a teacher approved by a University as tried by more than one branch before the name tutorial classes as heard; the suggestion that in the future a principal part of the ork of the Association must be the establishment of such classes was ade by representative workpeople like Mr. Walter Nield and representative University men like Mr. Sidney Ball, while the suggestion as accompanied by practical action in places as far apart as Battersea, Rochdale, and Longton. What the Association did was to seize upon an idea already welcomed by more than one branch, and to develop it in such a way as to place the classes under the control of joint committees of workpeople and University representatives, and to bring the financial resources both of the Universities and the Board of Education to their support.

Scarcely, however, had the classes proved their power, when it became apparent that they in turn were bringing the Association into contact with still wider problems. There were the needs of groups of students who required to have some special provision made for them in some districts, for example, of women—though we need not say that many women have always been members of tutorial classes; in other districts, of workers belonging to some special trade or society; in others, of students who were hampered by the conditions of their employment or who, for one reason or another, were prevented from joining tutorial classes; while behind them all stood the hitherto neglected agricultural worker, and the urgent demand for a campaign to rouse the village. The result has been that in many places the tutorial class has become what it should be everywhere, not the exclusive pre-occupation of a branch or of its students, but a centre from which wider educational efforts have drawn light and inspiration. If at one time there seemed a danger that classes for students who can give three years to continuous study might cause the Association to forget that its main work must always lie among the great body of workers who are harassed by overwork and unemployment, and discouraged by the consciousness that their previous opportunities for education have been few, that danger now appears to have passed away. In classes and clubs, in trade union branches, co-operative societies, and adult schools, and—we would add—in the Universities themselves, by addresses, papers, and reading circles, the Workers' Educational Association is vindicating in the most practical way its right to stand for the education not of a section but of the whole community.

Nor can it confine itself to the task of making adult education accessible to the adult working man and woman. The most tremendous fact in the educational life of England, the touchstone by which, sooner or later, the sincerity of every reformer is tried, is the condition of the children in the elementary schools. In this matter self-deception is ruin. No forward movement in higher education, the Workers' Educational Association least of all, can hope even to begin its proper work as long as the elementary school teachers are stultified by large classes, and children crushed by neglected ailments, by underfeeding, and by premature employment in industry. Unless the work of the Association is to end in a glitter of fine phrases, it must steadily refuse to regard higher education as something which can be detached from the life of the elementary schools. The students to whom it will appeal ten years hence are in the elementary schools to-day. Its teachers are the colleagues of those by whom those students are being taught. When elementary education has been improved by removing the grosser evils which we have spoken, the work of the Association will move with an impetus beyond the dreams of its founders. Till that has been done, nothing has been done, though much has been prepared. If we were disposed to prophesy we would say that, apart from all other considerations, the mere necessities of its own work will in the future compel the Association more and more to throw itself into the task of improving the conditions of the elementary schools. But in these matters we can appeal to the records of the Association and the activity of its branches. This fourth stage in its development has already begun. Its annual meetings are more and more occupied with resolutions relating to problems of child life; its branches with forming opinions about them by conferences, such as that at Manchester, to which allusion has already been made. This is as much its proper work as is the organising of lectures and classes, and we hope that it may show as much power in this sphere as it has in that of higher education.

Of the developments which have been sketched above, some have already passed beyond the sphere of experiment. The tutorial classes are now part of the educational machinery of the country. As far as they are concerned, the question of the future is not whether they will increase in number, but whether, as they increase, they will retain and intensify the spirit in which they were originally founded. The essence of a tutorial class is not that it is financed by the Board of Education, or that it is taught by a tutor approved by a University, but that it is a circle of friends meeting for the disinterested study of some of the deepest interests of mankind. The actual labour of establishing them securely must never divert attention from the fact that the main task of the Association must be to prevent them from degenerating into a mere piece of successful organisation, and—which is the same thing in other words—to increase the facilities hitherto sometimes too scanty, or close personal contact between students and teacher.

But the tutorial classes are only one part of the function of the Association. The development around them of other kinds of educational work must depend upon the circumstances of particular localities, and, in particular, upon the branches of the Association. It cannot be too strongly insisted that it is upon the branches that the future of the movement really depends. The Central Association can negotiate, organise, and co-ordinate; only the branches can push forward boundaries and keep the flame burning, and in the long run we shall be judged—and rightly judged—not by what may be said at national demonstrations, but by the readiness in humble ways and unseen places of plain men and women to toil with good heart at the tiresome details which make the material body of every great ideal. Such patient labour has never been wanting in the movement. How comprehensive the activities many of the branches are has already been described; but it is proper here to emphasise the necessity that all should every year make some new piece of work of their own. In some places the most urgent task is to arouse the demand for higher education, and by deputations, talks at factory gates, and, above all, by personal conversation, to create a body of opinion which will support a forward movement. In other places where preliminary work has already been done, there is less need for educational propaganda, and more for the actual provision of education for organising reading circles and supplying lecturers to affiliated societies. Affiliated societies cannot be expected to appreciate the work of the Association if it does nothing but maintain a tutorial class, which few at best of their members can attend. If we are to induce them to come to us, we must first show ourselves ready to go to them. It is for these branches to find the means of giving a practical proof that the Association is less anxious to create bands of select students than to show that the essential things in education are within the reach of all. For branches which, like some, have done all that is possible—and some have done more than would have seemed possible—in this matter, there still remains the work of forming educational opinion by conferences where the special educational problems of their locality can be discussed from the widest point of view.

For, after all, it is by its success in creating an enthusiasm for educational progress that the Association must ultimately stand or fall. What needs to be done for education in England can never be accomplished by any single organisation. The possibility of any great forward movement must depend upon the willingness of a far larger part of the community to make far larger sacrifices for immaterial ends than have willingly been contemplated hitherto, and it is not given to any one body however comprehensive and enthusiastic, to do more than labour at the foundations. The essential thing is that it should hold staunchly to its ideals, and not compromise its faith in order to win converts. What sustains a great movement is, in the end, not the number of its supporters but the intensity of its convictions. Its demand is that every human being shall have, as far as the community can supply it, the opportunity of obtaining the education which is necessary to the free development of his or her personality. Its experience does not allow it to doubt that sooner or later that demand, if patiently thought out and resolutely urged, will win its way. In its own short career it has seen more than one confident dogma of pessimism shrivel up in the light of experience. That no organisation could win the confidence both of labour and educationists, that there was no serious demand for higher education among the workers, that work of a University character could never be done after a day's labour in factory or mine, that humane education was for the few, and technical instruction for the many, that culture should be reserved for those who climb; the spectres of these and other doctrines still walk; but their brains are out, their power departed, their spells exorcised, not by argument (ghosts love argument), but by the logic of the accomplished fact. The workers do demand more classes than the Universities can provide; the classes do perform work of high intellectual power; the students do win education without leaving their comrades. Sceptics may read the Report of Mr. Headlam and Professor Hobhouse. The members of the Association can speak of what they have seen.

And yet, how little, after all, has been accomplished. Where the Association is strongest, perhaps one person in 500—where it is weak, perhaps one in 1,000—has heard of its work. In the country it has influenced some 30 villages. To bring education to the great army of students who cannot attend tutorial classes, to make a movement in the villages as eager as in the keenest towns, and to arouse all classes to the duties towards the child and adolescent which all classes have neglected; or work such as this, the ten years which have passed since the Association was founded have been but a preparation.

Signed on behalf of the Council,

WILLIAM TEMPLE, President.

PUBLIC AUDITOR'S REPORT.

to the Members of the Workers' Educational Association.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,

I have audited the foregoing accounts and certify same to be correct,

T. B. BUTTERWORTH

(Public Auditor under the Friendly Societies' Act, 1896, and Industrial and Provident Societies' Act, 1893).
C.W.S., Ltd., Audit Department, July 9th, 1913

JAMES BAMFORD, Hon. Treas.

WORK OF THE DISTRICTS.

It will be remembered that in the last Annual Report we foreshadowed the formation of a South-Eastern District, which was to include branches in that area hitherto reported under General.

Meetings were called towards the end of 1912, at which the suggestion was made and the decision arrived at to constitute, not one district, but three, viz., the Eastern, London, and South-Eastern. From all points of view it will be seen that this decision was an eminently wise one and brings us much nearer to the complete organisation of the whole of the country.

These three districts have now been definitely constituted, thus bringing the total number of districts up to eight.

Owing to the growth of the work in Scotland we are hoping, quite early in the coming year, to bring about the formation of a Scottish District Council. We also hope to be able to announce in our next Annual Report the formation of a South-Western District.

As will be seen from the following reports, greatly abbreviated, the work in the districts goes rapidly ahead, in each case far more rapidly than the means of financing the work, and it is quite possible that at least one or two of the districts may yet have to be divided.

The work of the district councils is uniformly good and the efficiency of the district offices increases year by year.

EASTERN DISTRICT.

This District was formed in March of this year, and held its first council meeting at Trinity College, Cambridge.

Its branches are spread over a very large area, and difficulties arise in choosing a central place for meetings. This problem is under consideration, and it seems likely that branches in close proximity to each other will meet previous to the full council meetings and send such representatives as they can. Financial difficulties prevent some branches from sending delegates, but under this system the representative will report back to their group of branches, and by this means it is hoped to secure continuity of work on the Council. Possibly about four sub-groups will be formed.

The Ipswich branch is making history, and bids fair to rival some of the older branches in the Association. Other branches have achieved good results, though in the main they are hampered by lack of funds.

The Cambridge Tutorial Classes Joint Committee has recently been formed, and the District is represented by its Secretary. Great things are hoped of this Committee, which has the experience of other Joint Committees to go upon, a further asset being that three of its members have been students in tutorial classes in different parts of the country.

There is not much extension work to report. A new branch has been formed at Colchester and shows every promise of a fruitful existence. We cannot as yet record as great progress, as other Districts will do, but we have the satisfaction of knowing that every branch is doing its best, and much ground is being prepared. Pioneer work, necessary, but not showing results, is being done, and we are content to wait for the harvest.

LONDON DISTRICT.

The formation of the London District, which was foreshadowed in the Annual Report of the London Branch of April, 1913, has now been accomplished. Our new area comprises 15 branches, while we have 22 societies affiliated and 43 individual members.

During the past three months the work necessitated by the change has been carried to a successful conclusion, and with our "house in order" we face the task before us with increasing strength and hope.

Canon Masterman's lectures on "The Mediæval Gilds and City Companies" attracted audiences of from 250 to 300 on four Saturday afternoons. They will be followed in the autumn by a series on "John Ruskin and his life's work," which the Rev. W. Hudson Shaw has kindly offered to give.

An effort to run a two-shift class for Tramwaymen, though not so successful as we could have wished, was sufficiently so to make us desirous of another attempt.

During the whole year there were held in the London District area 6 tutorial classes, and 24 other W.E.A. classes. The demand for classes for women is increasing; we have now under consideration three requests and others are reported to be on the way.

The second Summer School, held at London University during our Saturdays in June and July, has been much appreciated by the members of the tutorial classes.

At the present time we are particularly interested in the re-organisation of the London County Council Evening Classes and the future of London University, for our work is bound to be affected greatly by both; and there we may perhaps find, if our hopes can be realised, some of the fairest prospects of increased strength and usefulness.

MIDLAND DISTRICT.

During 1912-13 only three new branches have been formed, Tysoe, Newark, and Nuneaton, and one is in process of formation at Fleckney.

Leicester continues to hold the position of one of the chief W.E.A. centres in the Midlands. During the past year it has had two tutorial classes, a preparatory class on European History, a women's class in Literature, a Railwaymen's class on Industrial History, and a number of miscellaneous lectures. The subject studied in one of the tutorial classes has been Studies in Social Science. The subject is quite a new one, but in the hands of the tutor, Mr. E. A. Smith, B.Sc., Nottingham University College, it proved fascinating and valuable. This subject has been selected by Sutton-in-Ashfield for a tutorial class commencing next session.

The East Midland Branches—Nottingham, Mansfield, and Sutton-in-Ashfield, have all done excellent work, and in addition to the formation of a new branch at Newark there is a proposal to establish classes in several mining villages. Altogether the progress made during the year has brought the ideal of an East Midland District appreciably nearer.

Mention should be made of Shrewsbury, which, in spite of its local difficulties and isolated position, is proving itself to be a real W.E.A. centre.

The progress in Birmingham has not slackened during 1912-13. There are now 1,010 individual members and some 350 students have attended the classes held at the University and elsewhere in the city. In addition 10 courses of lectures and 9 miscellaneous lectures have been given. The branch has again co-operated with the Midland Adult School Union in arranging lectures in the Adult Schools, and over 1,000 have been given. The Women's Section, numbering now some 500 members, has had an active year. In addition to gatherings of a social character, two special classes for women and seven lectures have been held at the University, and 49 lectures have been arranged for women's organisations. The Music Section has undertaken serious class work during 1912-13, and has earned a grant from the Board of Education. Selected choirs and quartettes have competed in the Worcestershire Musical Festival and the Midland Musical Festival, and have achieved several successes. The Playgoers' Section has had an exceptionally active and successful session; a weekly meeting has been held to read and discuss plays, a number of lectures have been given, and some large theatre parties have been arranged. As a result of the activities of the Section, Playgoers' Circles have been organised in two affiliated societies. A great impetus has been given to the work in the Birmingham District by the appointment by the University of two special lecturers, who devote half their time to lecturing for the W.E.A.

A notable feature of the work in the Midlands during the past year has been the tendency towards the broader and more humanistic subjects; thus at Dudley, where a University tutorial class on Economics has just ended its three years' course, a class on Literature has been formed, and the applications for admission were so numerous that many had to be refused. At Birmingham the study of Philosophy, Literature and Music have taken the leading place in the programme, and 2 working-class students have been studying these subjects. At Cradley Heath the women chainmakers have asked for a class in Music. At the same time the classes in Economics, History, etc., continue to flourish.

Steps have been taken in rural work. At Claverdon, in Warwickshire, a class of 40 has been studying Natural Science. At Tysoe, also in Warwickshire, there has been a course of lectures on Rural History. In both cases the Warwickshire County Education Committee has made substantial grants. At Fleckney, which is a semi-industrial village in Leicestershire, a class on Industrial History has been held. This class originated in a group of Adult School men who had taken a correspondence course under Fircroft College.

The Midland District offers a splendid field for the Association, and educational propaganda and organisation are greatly needed in many parts, but inadequate finance and the understaffing of the Midland office makes it necessary to exercise caution in undertaking new centres. It is frequently a long time before a new branch emerges from its stages of infancy and is able to stand alone.

NORTH-EASTERN DISTRICT.

The District has suffered a severe loss during the year in the death of its first Chairman, the late Dean Kitchen.

The year has been one of steady progress. The roll of affiliated societies grows steadily and now stands at 50, while the individual membership is increased from 28 to 44.

Five new branches have been established during the year at Boldon Colliery, Carlisle, Easington, Newcastle, and South Shields, bringing the total number of branches in the District up to 14. Nearly every branch returns a larger membership than last year, there being now 218 societies affiliated to the branches (last year 190), and 277 individual members (last year 128). The work done by the branches has been varied in nature, including tutorial and other classes, miscellaneous lectures, courses of lectures, and study circles. Four special courses for women have met with much success.

Under the auspices of the University of Durham Joint Committee for Tutorial Classes, 8 classes have been held, which, in spite of many drawbacks owing to industrial conditions, have been attended with much success. The Joint Committee has arranged to hold a fortnight's Summer School at the University, Durham, during July and August, and this experiment gives every promise of being highly successful.

The financial position of the District has improved somewhat, but is still far from satisfactory.

It is hoped that further rural branches may be added next year to those at Boldon Colliery and Easington, which have already been mentioned, and steps are being taken to include in the District the North Riding of Yorkshire, where such rural work is likely to be specially fruitful.

NORTH-WESTERN DISTRICT.

The year has been one of great expansion and activity. The number of branches in the District has now risen to the very large total of 58, an increase of 18 since last year. The number of societies affiliated to the District is now 50, and the individual membership has increased from 80 (last year) to 129.

The branches are too numerous for special comment to be made of many of their activities. Chorley has again made great strides in the work of its People's College. Manchester has held no less than 16 classes during the winter. Blackburn, Littleborough, Chesterfield, Halifax, Leeds, and Bradford have also continued the successful work of earlier years.

Forty-one tutorial classes, held under the auspices of five universities, have been held in the District during the winter. The District Secretary and his colleagues have devoted much time during the last few months to the organisation, in co-operation with the universities of Liverpool and Manchester, and the University College of North Wales, Bangor, of a Summer School to be held at Bangor for six weeks. The school promises to be a great success; 142 students have registered.

One of the special activities of the year has been the organising of a series of educational conferences in the District. Such conferences were held at Liverpool, Oldham, and Bolton, and the District Council itself organised one which was held in Manchester. It was attended by over 200 representatives of working-class and educational organisations.

The constant work of the District makes the problem of finance more acute than ever. Increased work has necessitated the removal of the District Office from Rochdale to Manchester, and the great extension of the Association in Yorkshire has led to the appointment of Mr. G. F. Thompson, Secretary of the Halifax Branch, as assistant organiser for Yorkshire.

THE SOUTH-EASTERN DISTRICT.

This District, the most recently formed, came definitely into being on Saturday, 14th June, at a meeting held at University College, Reading, at which were present 14 representatives of branches, affiliated bodies, and the National Association.

The District, which includes the counties of Oxford, Buckinghamshire, Berkshire, Hampshire, Sussex, and the parts of Kent and Surrey outside the London District, has problems all its own, not the least of which is its rural nature. The enthusiastic send-off which the District received at its first meeting gives ground for hope that this chief difficulty, will yet be its greatest success.

Definite steps will be taken to stimulate and organise the demand for education in the District, and it is hoped in the next report to be able to record work and progress.

The number of branches and affiliated societies, 12 and 9 respectively, gives a good nucleus, and we feel confident of achieving much.

WELSH DISTRICT.

The District has grown considerably during the year, and has been very active. The number of bodies affiliated to the District has increased from 14 to 22, and the number of individual members from 14 to 41.

The District has still attempted to carry out its work rather through the district office than through the formation of branches. Three new branches have been formed during the year, bringing the total number now up to four, and three others are in process of formation and will be ready for work next winter. The rural branch at Llantwit Major has been particularly successful, having carried on a successful tutorial class and a series of public lectures, in addition to a number of successful social functions.

Seventeen new tutorial classes have been working in Wales during the last session, five in the quarry districts of North Wales under the auspices of the University College of North Wales, Bangor, two in Cardiganshire under the joint auspices of the University College of Wales, Aberystwyth, and the Cardiganshire Education Committee, while 10 classes in South Wales, though working actually under the Glamorganshire Education Committee, and not under the auspices of a university, have been conducted on tutorial class lines.

The formation of the Bangor Summer School has roused much interest in Wales, and 42 students from the various classes have applied for admission.

The District has been very active in the arranging of lectures for its affiliated bodies. Eighty-four lectures have been delivered, and all the clubs and institutes affiliated to the District have been visited in this way. The district has received much assistance from the Glamorganshire Education Committee, which has undertaken the responsibility for the tutorial classes within its area, and has awarded four scholarships of £3 each to students wishing to attend the Bangor Summer School.

WESTERN DISTRICT.

The second Annual Report of the Western District shows steady progress during the past year. Four new branches have been established, viz., Chippenham, Shipham, Winterbourne Bassett and Radstock. Other branches are in course of formation and many centres are ripe for organisations as soon as the necessary funds are forthcoming.

A University Joint Committee has been established and the University of Bristol has voted £30 towards the expenses of the Bath tutorial class, which has been carried on this year, and also £150 toward financing five tutorial classes next winter in Bath and Bristol.

The experiment of holding the Annual Meeting of the Association in the West was fully justified. It was generally agreed that the meetings were an unqualified success, and they undoubtedly gave an impetus to development in town and country.

A large and representative gathering of the branches in the Western District met under the most delightful conditions to bid God-speed to Mr. and Mrs. Mansbridge prior to their trip to the Antipodes.

The work of the branches has, on the whole, been satisfactory particularly so in two or three instances. The first tutorial class arranged under the University of Bristol, stands to the credit of Bath. This branch also arranged an excellent series of popular lectures, also study circles, and preparatory classes in English Literature for women. Bristol was again to the fore with 672 study circle meetings for 90 organisations, 362 of which were for women and girls, for whom also a special series of health lectures was arranged and highly appreciated. The Saturday afternoon fixtures were again a satisfactory feature. Lectures on Industrial Law and extra-mural University lectures on the History of Socialism were among some other activities too numerous to mention. A move to strengthen and develop Ward Committees was successful. The University Settlement has been most helpful. Gloucester again carried through a varied and useful programme of lectures and excursions. In addition to a tutorial class in Economics, they instituted a reading circle and discussion class. Assistance has also been rendered to the adult schools of the city.

The Swindon branch has done much to help and encourage the rural branches in the District, besides creating a distinct record of work at home. Festivals in honour of local celebrities and Saturday afternoon excursions are still a popular feature. A tutorial class in Economics, reading circle, and essay class are chief among other activities.

The Chippenham branch started work with a course of lectures on Industrial History, and Marlborough arranged two courses on The History of the British Empire and Astronomy.

Space will not permit of a detailed account of the work of the rural branches. They all did splendidly. In some cases courses of four, six, and eight lectures on one subject have been carried out. The topics chosen in other cases were varied, and all tended to make village life more attractive.

A notable and praiseworthy feature in most branches is the attention paid to the social side, this helping to develop that fellowship so essential in educational work.

A determined effort will be made during the coming year to strengthen the finances by increasing the list of members and securing additional affiliations.

CONSTITUTION OF THE ASSOCIATION.

I.—NAME.

The Association shall be known as THE WORKERS' EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION. It shall be definitely unsectarian and non-political.

II.—OBJECT.

Its object shall be to promote the Higher Education of Working Men and Women.

III.—METHODS.

It shall, in its capacity as a co-ordinating Federation of Working-class and Educational interests, endeavour to fulfil its object in the following principal ways :

- (a) By arousing the interest of the Workers in Higher Education, and by directing their attention to the facilities already existing.
- (b) By enquiring into the needs and feelings of the Workers in regard to Education, and by representing them to the Board of Education, Universities, Local Education Authorities, and Educational Institutions.
- (c) By providing, either in conjunction with the aforementioned bodies or otherwise, facilities for studies of interest to the Workers which may have been hitherto overlooked.
- (d) By publishing, or arranging for the publication of such reports, pamphlets, books, and magazines as it deems necessary.

IV.—CONSTITUTION.

The Association shall consist of—

- (a) The Central Authority.
  - (b) District Authorities.
  - (c) Local Branches.
- (a) The CENTRAL AUTHORITY shall operate nationally, and shall assist the District Authorities and Local Branches in all possible ways. It shall consist of District Authorities, affiliated bodies, and individual members.

Membership.—National movements, institutions, societies, and unions may become affiliated on payment of a minimum annual subscription of one guinea. Individuals may become members on payment of a minimum annual subscription of two-and-sixpence.

Management.—The management shall be vested in a Central Council which shall consist of the officers, two representatives of each District Authority, one representative of each affiliated society, and ten members of the Association, to be elected by the individual members of the Central Authority, who shall vote by ballot. Ballot papers to be sent out to members at the same time as the notice of motions and nominations of President and Treasurer and to be returned not less than seven days before the date of the Annual General Meeting. In the event of insufficient nominations being received from the individual members of the Central Authority, the Council shall be made up to the required number by election by show of hands at the Annual General Meeting.

The Council shall meet at least twice in each year, in such centres as shall from time to time be determined. It shall appoint an Executive Committee, who shall be elected by and from the members of the Council. The Council shall have power to appoint such other committees as it finds necessary.

Officers.—The officers shall consist of a President, Treasurer, and Secretary. The President and Treasurer to be elected annually by the Annual General Meeting. The Secretary shall be appointed by the Central Council.

Annual General Meeting.—The Annual General Meeting shall be held on the third Saturday in October of each year, in such centres as may from time to time be determined. To it shall be presented the statement of accounts (including the balance sheets of the District Authorities) and the annual report (including the reports of the District Authorities). Such statement of accounts and annual report shall be issued not later than the third Saturday in July. Nominations for President, Treasurer, and ten individual members of the Central Council must be sent to the General Secretary not less than 28 days before the Annual General Meeting. The General Secretary shall issue the same to the District Authorities, Branches, Affiliated Societies, and members not later than 21 days before the Annual General Meeting.

To the Annual General Meeting shall be summoned :—

- (a) All the members of the Central Council, who shall have no power to vote unless the same be delegated to them by their respective authorities or societies.
- (b) Two representatives from each District Authority, who shall have power to cast one vote for each individual member of, and thirty votes for each body affiliated by, the District.
- (c) Two representatives from each Local Branch, who shall have power to cast one vote for each individual member of, and twenty votes for each body affiliated by, the Local Branch.
- (d) One representative for each body affiliated by the Central Authority, who shall have power to cast forty votes.
- (e) All the individual members of the Central Authority, who shall each have power to cast one vote.
- (f) All voting shall be by show of hands, unless a card vote is demanded by ten or more members. The "previous question" shall not be accepted on an amendment to the Constitution. In the event of the "previous question" being moved on any other matter it shall be submitted only to a vote by show of hands.

- (b) DISTRICT AUTHORITIES.—District Authorities shall be federations of District bodies and individual members. They shall operate over their respective areas, which shall be determined hereafter by the Central Council in consultation with the Local Branches and the existing District Authorities. Their constitutions shall be approved by the Central Council. Subject to the provisions elsewhere in this constitution, they shall be autonomous.
- (1) They shall pay to the Central Authority an annual contribution equivalent to two shillings in every pound of the total subscriptions received from individual members, affiliated bodies, and local branches.
  - (2) They shall submit an annual report and balance sheet to the Central Council not later than the second Saturday in July of each year for inclusion in the report of the whole Association.
  - (3) They shall appoint two of their members to serve upon the Central Council.
  - (4) They shall affiliate societies, institutions, and movements on payment of a minimum annual subscription of one guinea, and admit individuals as members on payment of a minimum annual subscription of two-and-sixpence.
  - (5) They shall admit to their Council, constituted on lines identical with those of the Central Authority, a representative or representatives of each local branch, and the President and Secretary (ex-officio) of the Central Authority.
- (c) LOCAL BRANCHES.—Local branches shall operate over areas determined in consultation with the Council or District Authority. They shall be autonomous federations of individuals and local bodies with constitutions approved by the Council of the District Authority. They shall pay to the District Authority an annual subscription of one penny on every shilling of the total subscriptions of individual members and affiliated societies. They shall each be entitled to send one or more representatives to the District Council.

V —ALTERATION OF CONSTITUTION.

No alteration of Constitution can be made except in the Annual General Meeting. Notice of any proposed alteration must be sent to the Secretary not later than the first Saturday in July of each year, so that it may be issued with the annual report for the time being.

The Ninth Annual Meeting,

Bristol, 18th and 19th October, 1912.

RECEPTION.

The Delegates were received in the Art Gallery on Friday, 18th October, at 4.30 p.m., by the Bristol Kyrle Society. Short addresses were given by Miss Clifford (President of the Society) and Professor Leonard. The Rev. W. Temple (President) expressed thanks on behalf of the delegates.

NATIONAL DEMONSTRATION.

The Demonstration was held on Friday, 18th October, at the Colston Hall, Bristol. The President of the Association took the chair.

Welcomes were extended by Mr. Edward Robinson, ex-Lord Mayor (in the unavoidable absence of the Lord Mayor), on behalf of the city; by Sir Isambard Owen (Vice-Chancellor) on behalf of the University; and by Mr. Arthur Hawker (President of the Trades and Labour Council) on behalf of the organised workers of the city.

After a short address by the Bishop of Hereford, the President, in the unavoidable absence of Sir Oliver Lodge, addressed the meeting.

Miss Margaret Bondfield proposed:—

“ That this National Demonstration, representing Labour and Education, expresses its confidence in the unsectarian, non-party, democratic activity of the W.E.A. in attempting alike to stimulate and to satisfy the demand among working men and working women for education; and affirms its belief that in the continuation of such activity lies one of the chief hopes for the development of a national system of education, assuring to each child, adolescent, and adult that education which is essential for the complete development of individual and corporate capacities.”

The resolution was seconded by Mr. Will Crooks, M.P.

It was carried unanimously, and with enthusiasm.

Dr. J. W. Barrett, of Melbourne University, Alderman Sheppard J.P., and Professor G. H. Leonard also addressed the meeting, speaking of a general vote of thanks.

OFFICIAL SESSION

HELD IN THE MUSEUM LECTURE THEATRE, 9 A.M. TO 7 P.M.

PRESENT.—There were present some 300 delegates, including those from—5 Districts.
    53 Branches.
 125 Affiliated Societies.

Mr. Reuben George, Chairman of the Western District, temporarily occupied the chair.

EIGHTH ANNUAL MEETING.—The Minutes of the Eighth Annual Meeting were taken as read, and adopted.

SCRUTINEERS.—Scrutineers were appointed as follows:—

Mr. Gathercole (Ilford).
Mr. Rainer (Bournemouth).
Mr. Goodman (London).
Mr. Hallett (Shrewsbury).

PRESIDENT.—The re-election of the Rev. William Temple as President was confirmed with acclamation. He proceeded to the chair.

HON. TREASURER.—The election of Mr. James Bamford as Honorary Treasurer was confirmed with acclamation.

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS.—Mr. Temple delivered his Presidential Address. He was thanked on the motion of Mr. G. A. Isaacs, seconded by Mr. T. Edmund Harvey, M.P.

GREETINGS.—The General Secretary read greetings from—Mr. A. Haidl (Vienna), The Chorley W.E.A., Dr. Burn (Halifax), The Bishop of Oxford, Mr. C. W. Bowerman, M.P., Mr. J. W. Ogden, J.P., Miss Quaile, Mr. J. R. Thornton (Upsala). The meeting authorised suitable replies to be sent.

FRATERNAL DELEGATES.—Dr. J. W. Barrett, of Melbourne University, and Mr. A. Sandhagen, of the Frankfurt People's Lecture Society, addressed the meeting. Mr. A. E. Zimmern, who, with Mr. J. D. Wilson, represented the Board of Education also addressed the meeting. The President expressed the thanks of the meeting to the delegates, and to the representatives of the Board of Education.

ADOPTION OF REPORT AND BALANCE SHEET.—The Report, with additions, and Balance Sheet were adopted unanimously after a lengthy discussion in which a large number of representatives took part.

AUDITOR.—Mr. T. B. Butterworth was re-appointed Auditor. It was resolved that the hearty thanks of the Association be conveyed to him for his services.

RESOLUTIONS.

(1) Proposed Alteration of Constitution.

Section IV.—Constitution.

To delete paragraph dealing with Management under Clause (a), and to substitute the following:—

The Management shall be vested in a Central Council, which shall consist of the officers, two representatives of each District Authority, one representative of each affiliated society, and ten members of the Association, to be elected by the individual members of the Central Authority, who shall vote by ballot. Ballot papers to be sent out to members at the same time as the notice of motions and nomination of President and Treasurer, and to be returned not less than seven days before the date of the Annual General Meeting. In the event of insufficient nominations being received from the individual members of the Central Authority, the Council shall be made up to the required number by election by show of hands at the Annual General Meeting.

The Council shall meet at least twice in each year, in such centres as shall from time to time be determined. It shall appoint an Executive Committee, who shall be elected by and from the members of the Council. The Council shall have power to appoint such other committees as it finds necessary.—North-Western District Council. Carried.

- (2) In paragraph dealing with Annual General Meeting under Clause (a), to delete the words "and Treasurer" in lines 8 and 9, and to substitute Treasurer and ten individual members of the Central Council.—North-Western District Council. Carried.

- (3) To delete sub-clause (f) under the paragraph dealing with Annual General Meeting, and to substitute the following :—

All voting shall be by show of hands, unless a card vote is demanded by ten or more members. The "previous question" shall not be accepted on an amendment to the Constitution. In the event of the "previous question" being moved on any other matter it shall be submitted only to a vote by show of hands.—North-Western District Council.

Amendment to Proposed Alteration of Constitution.

Section IV (3).

All voting shall be by show of hands unless a card vote is demanded by thirty or more members, etc.—Bristol Branch.

The Amendment was moved by Mr. Jackson (Bristol), and seconded by Mr. Cuthbertson (Midland District), and carried on a show of hands by 81 votes against 64; but on a card vote being demanded was rejected by 20,131 votes against 8,907.

GENERAL RESOLUTIONS.

- (1) "That in the interests of higher education, and in order to encourage those parents who are prepared to make sacrifices for the purpose of keeping their children at school until the age of 16, this Conference directs the Council to take every opportunity of urging upon employers, and particularly the Postmaster General and other Civil Service and Municipal Authorities, the desirability of reserving a fair proportion of the vacancies annually occurring in their establishments (both in the higher and lower grades) for persons of from 16 to 18 years of age."—United Kingdom Postal Clerks' Association. Referred to the Council.
- (2) "That this Annual Meeting having had brought before its notice cases of great hardship caused by the misinterpretation of the term "Free Places," urges that free books, apparatus, stationery, and travelling expenses should accompany the award of scholarships to Secondary Schools, so as to avoid any hindrance being placed in the way of the children of working-class parents."—Manchester Branch (as amended by Shrewsbury Branch). Carried.
- (3) "That this Association calls attention to the case of children who, having won scholarships, exhibitions, or free places under any particular Local Education Authority, are compelled to forfeit these advantages and to discontinue their education because of the removal of their parents to another area. In view of the frequency of such cases, this Association suggests that arrangements should be made between the various Local Education Authorities, whereby the education of such children could be carried on continuously with as little interruption as possible, and that the penalty for withdrawing a child should in these circumstances be remitted."—Manchester Branch (as amended by Birkenhead Branch). Carried unanimously.
- (4) "That this Meeting, recognising the growing desire for education, trusts that an appeal will be made to Education Authorities to approach employers of labour, and at the same time also approach the various industrial organisations of the workers, to suppress overtime as far as possible; and that where young people attend evening schools the employer be asked to allow them time off, either two hours off in the afternoon of the school day, or else two hours off the following morning; and in view of the financial waste involved in the consequent irregularity in the attendance of students, calls upon the Board of Education to make an enquiry into the educational aspects of the question of overtime."—Swindon Branch (as amended by Rochdale, Birkenhead, and the Executive.) Carried unanimously.

- (5) "This Annual Meeting regrets that the Council in their report on the University Extension Movement makes no recommendations which would assist in removing the present financial difficulties in the way of the development of this important part of higher education by W.E.A. Branches. And this meeting requests the Central Authority and District Councils to prepare lists of suitable lecturers who could be secured at terms within the reach of the poorest educational organisation."—Rochdale Branch. Referred to the Council.
- (6) "That in view of the widespread and rapidly increasing dissatisfaction concerning the administration of the endowments and the methods of government obtaining in the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, and of the failure of the efforts made by their own members to secure reasonable and necessary reforms, this Association hereby requests the Prime Minister to accede to the repeated demands made upon him by representative organisations of workpeople, and by strong bodies of resident tutors at the Universities themselves, to appoint a Royal Commission, or Commissions, to inquire into the finances and administration of the Universities and Colleges of Oxford and Cambridge. "It affirms that the increasing need for the dissemination of sound learning and the extension of knowledge cannot be satisfied until the Universities are as accessible to the poor as they are to the rich. "It instructs the Council to bring the matter before the Prime Minister without delay."—Executive. Referred to the Council, with power to act.
- (7) "That this Annual Meeting considers it desirable, as a matter of principle, that at least half the members of every Joint Committee should be direct representatives of workpeople, and asks Joint Committees not so constituted to consider adjusting themselves to this position."—North-Western Council.

Amendment to Resolution.—"That this Annual Meeting considers it essential that at least half the representatives of every Joint Committee should be direct representatives of workpeople, and instructs the Council to take steps to secure the complete operation of this principle."—Executive. Referred, with amendment, to the Council and the North-Western District Council, for consideration.

Next Meeting.—The invitation for the Annual Meeting of 1913 submitted by the North-Western District Council on behalf of Leeds was cordially accepted.

Resolution of Thanks.—On the motion of the President a cordial vote of thanks was passed to the University, to the Museum and Art Gallery Committee, to the Press, and to the Secretaries and local helpers for the arrangements made for the comfort and convenience of the delegates.

Conversazione.—In the evening a Conversazione was held in the Hall of the Merchant Venturers' Technical College, on the invitation of the Bristol W.E.A., the delegates being received by Professor and Mrs. Leonard.

On Sunday, addresses were given on the work of the Association and on other subjects, to about 60 organisations in Bristol and district. The President of the Association preached an Association Sermon in the Cathedral, by kind invitation of the Dean and Chapter.
